Team Up for Fire Safety

Fire Prevention Week October 3-9, 2004 Be Sure To Test Your Smoke Alarms

Smoke alarms provide early warming when a fire occurs, yet they are useless if not operating correctly. Only a working smoke alarm can save your life!

Most home fire deaths and injuries can be prevented through early warning and quick response. Minimum safety requirements suggest that smoke alarms be installed outside every sleeping area and on every level of the home, near the kitchen and in the basement.

Testing the devices every month helps ensure they are in top condition and ready to work in a fire. Make sure the batteries work by replacing them every year, or when you hear intermittent beeping. Smoke alarms won't last forever, so automatically replace those older than 10 years. When you hear the sound of your smoke alarm, you should be prepared. Develop and practice a fire escape plan, establish at least two exists from each room and arrange to meet at a place away from your home.

Knowing what to do when the smoke alarm sounds will help you and your family to escape safely if there is a fire.
