

WILSONVILLE

By VELMA HOLTZE and LAURIE LAWS

Some college students left early on Sunday, Jan. 2 to return to their classes. Some who waited until later changed their mind, planning to wait until morning. However, the weather in the eastern part of the state changed that. Colleges called off classes because of the icy conditions until Thursday. This area also had icy moisture on Monday and Tuesday and snow on Wednesday. Temperatures dropped to the zero mark by Wednesday. No schools in this area were in session Tuesday or Wednesday.

Jim and Becky Holtze brought ice cream and cake to the home of his mother, Velma Holtze, Wednesday evening. They had also invited Kenneth and Carla Holtze. Together they remembered Carla's birthday and Kenneth and Carla's wedding anniversary. It was cold when they were married too. That day, Jan. 6, the temperatures hovered at 20 degrees below much of the day.

Connie Wilson met her friend, Erma Johnson, of Bridgeport at Kearney on Friday. They were overnight guests of Connie's daughter, Kim and Josh Townsend. Erma attended a wedding on Saturday and Connie returned home late Saturday afternoon.

Ben and Mandy Brown, Lincoln, Alicia Brown, Kearney, spent the weekend in the parental home of Gary and Karen Brown.

Pat Yost would be a good insurance salesman after her Saturday evening experience. Returning from McCook, her lights suddenly began to dim, then her car died and she was unable to start it. Luckily she has "Call for Help" insurance. Within less than an hour the towing truck was there to tow her into Cambridge. She was glad for her friend, Ella Wilson's company while she waited and also for Ella's daughter who returned with them to Wilsonville.

Jim and Becky Holtze, Brian Holtze and Lyndzie Claus of Arapahoe helped their granddaughter and niece, Baylee Miller, celebrate her fifth birthday Thursday evening at her parents, Justin and Jolene Millers in Cambridge.

The Baptist-Christian Women hosted a bridal shower for Cassie Lewis and Stephen Hultgren on Saturday evening in the church basement. June Palmer registered over 40 guests. The words of welcome were given by Velma Holtze who also presented the gift from the church. This was followed with "How Well Do You Know the Bride?" Surprising but true, Steven knew her likes, pet peeves, etc., better than those who have known her for years. Words of wisdom on "How to Cook a Husband" were read by Ella Rae tenBensel. Prior to the gift opening Connie Wilson chose the 13th chapter of First Corinthians for her evening devotions using some simple kitchen utensils to portray important steps in keeping a marriage stable. More bits of timely wisdom were given during the opening of the gifts. Margalee Ruf was in charge of room decorations. Alice Kasson and Virginia Rice were in charge of the refreshments. Steven's mother, Debbie Hultgren from Storm Lake, Iowa, Cassie's aunts, Kris and Danel of Kearney, Mae and Ira of Hastings, Dixie, Cozad, great aunt and uncle from Holdrege, cousins Ben and Mandy Brown, Lincoln, uncle Kenny and family from Colorado, friend, Amber Heitman, Omaha and minister, Keith Theobald, Beaver City were out of town guests.

Library Board Meets

The Wilsonville Library Board met at the library on Jan. 5, with two members absent. Doug Palmer was present to submit the propane and electric bill. The business meeting was opened with the "Pledge of Allegiance". Several generous checks have been received from Dan and Karen Flannagan, Ann Marie Shaw from New Mexico, Ella Wilson and Julie Smith. Appreciation is due these people as well as those who assist the library in many ways. Bob Holiday has recently placed the plaque for Betty Murphy on the memorial board.

Bills paid this month were the propane and electric bill and the librarian's salary. The Arapahoe library has donated several boxes of books to the library which will soon be cataloged and ready for reading. New magazine subscriptions for your reading pleasure are the "Huskerfield" which is a weekly and "Backyard Living". It was great to learn (when the yearly reports were made) that the library had increased in patron usage with 361 more books checked out this year and more use made of the computers. Remember, the library is there for you to use, but you are the one who must come, check out books, tapes and use the computers.

JENNINGS NEWS

By LOUISE CRESSLER

Many activities were canceled last week due to the ice and snow.

The United Methodist Women meeting was held Wednesday at the church. Pastor Glenn's annual consultation with District Supervisor, Pat Duell, was rescheduled to Jan. 18.

City council met Jan. 6 with all councilman present and guests Fred Washburn, Hoxie and Pat Foster. Ms. Foster expressed concern about skunks and other varmints under an iron pile on property adjacent to her place of business. She was assured the problem would be taken care of.

Fred Washburn, certified water and sewer operator at Hoxie was asked by the council to attend the meeting. After talking with him and reviewing other applicants, the council will hire Mr. Washburn to oversee Jennings water and sewer. Jeff Rowilson will do daily maintenance and read meters monthly.

Meters will be read on the 25th of each month. The city clerk is working on a grant application for renovation of Community Hall. There will be a city election in April for Mayor and two council members.

Genia Collins, Kingston, N.Y., and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cressler, had surgery Wednesday. She had fallen and broken her leg.

Jim and Wilma Mader had most of their family visiting over New Year's weekend.

Merl and Ruth Chance also had family visiting over the weekend.
