

WILSONVILLE

By VELMA HOLTZE and LAURIE LAWS

Karen Hayens from Kansas spent Wednesday through Sunday at the home of Dick and Joan McLaughlin. On Thursday she visited in the Jim Frey home at Beaver City. Karen, the Freys and the McLaughlins are all residents at the same place during the winter.

Russell, Michelle and Elissa Simmons of Hays, were weekend guests of his grandmother, Velma Holtze. They came especially to attend the Holtze-Clouse wedding in Arapahoe. Others coming to Wilsonville for the same reason were Linda Slay of Mobile, Ala., Jim and Sherill Hayes, Lincoln and Craig and Joan Mohr, Eagle, Neb., all siblings of Becky Holtze.

Janene Holtze is spending this week with her parents, Jim and Becky Holtze between quarters at college in Beatrice.

Jake and Trenton Hoagland of Hastings were Sunday and Monday visitors of their grandparents, Kenneth and Carla Holtze.

For those who remember Phyllis Pahl Mitchell and her husband, the late Clifford Mitchell, both graduates of Wilsonville High School will enjoy reading her book about Clifford's life in Wilsonville and his years in the service. Phyllis placed this book in the library over a year ago, but not too many realized it until recently.

Double Eight Club met for a salad supper with Norma Smith Sept. 21. Ten members were present with one guest, Merna Harper. The club is sorry Barbara Wolfe and Virginia Andre are leaving the club.

The next meeting will be with Virginia Rice on Oct. 19. Merna Harper talked about the coronation for Ashley Rice which is in January, asking the club to furnish sheet cakes for the dinner. Members agreed to help.

Members enjoyed watching the Nebraska volleyball team play on television.

Norma Jean Frandsen was taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital in Lincoln on Friday. Her sister, Carolyn O'Brien, visited her on Sunday.

Connie Wilson's father, Perry Mason of McPherson, spent last week in the hospital. Plans are to move him to Assisted Living the middle of this week.

All 14 members and six guests of Wilsonville Women's Club gathered at Shirley K's in Cambridge for their first meeting of the 2005-06 year on Sept. 12. President Mary Wilson welcomed members, guests and especially Dot Bruening as a new member.

The community picnic was on Sept. 18 and the Library's ice cream social following was announced. The meeting was closed with the club collect.

Five I Help Others members and one guest, Carol Volker, enjoyed dinner at the Heritage Plaza in Cambridge on Sept. 14 when Lillian Lemaster hosted the September club meeting. Gail Palmer Fleider, a former club member who now works at the Plaza joined them during the meal. Vice President Carla Holtze conducted a short business meeting and several things were discussed with no special action. Roll call was answered by each one sharing what they had been doing since the May meeting.

Later they shared what they hoped to accomplish in 2005. The women helped Lillian decide where their project money should go. It was decided to send it to Lillian's grandson, Trent Smith.

His family has three children afflicted with an incurable disease. Medicines are so expensive, it is mind boggling. The group moved to Lillian's apartment for more visiting where she treated them to "sweets". Nadeane Haag will host the October meeting which will be a "T and T" get together.

At the present time, citizens from this area are well represented at Heritage Plaza, a retirement home in Cambridge. Those who have been former area residents are Virginia Andre, Lillian Lemaster, Ernest tenBensel, Meredith Knutson, and Eugene Murphy. Mr. Murphy is the newest resident, moving in two or three weeks ago. He has been gone from Wilsonville over a year, but prior to that had remodeled the house and did extensive work on the yard for a friend over the course of several years at the property south of Joe and Barb Wolfe. Helen Helm who resided in the Lyle neighborhood southwest of Wilsonville also resides there.

Though Blake Anderson, who had the grand champion steer at Nebraska State Fair this year is from Arapahoe, he too has Wilsonville ties. Back in the 30s his great grandfather, Mac Anderson, was well known in the area as a successful cattle feeder in cooperation with his father, Nolie Anderson. They lived east of Wilsonville. Mac's family lived where Huxols live and Nolie's where Kurt Knutson lives.

The United Methodist Women met Sept. 15 with six members, one guest and the Rev. R. L. Malchow in attendance. The slate of officers was filled by Lillian taking the vice president's office. It was voted to accept the slate of officers which was presented earlier. The business meeting continued with the Rev. Malchow announcing: He attended the minister's meeting in Cambridge where he met Bishop Sherer and told of her requests. There will be no Sunday services in our church on Christmas Sunday as he will be with his family. Charge Conference will be in Wilsonville on Nov. 14 at 1:30 p.m. Nadeane Haag will host the Fellowship dinner in October since Edith Rikli will be gone.

Virginia Andre served refreshments to conclude the afternoon. The next meeting will be Oct. 26 at 1:30 p.m.

Sunday afternoon Connie Wilson hosted a wedding shower for Wendee Park and her fiancé, Joel Masters of Omaha, at the Baptist-Christian Church.

Some from the area enjoyed the Eager Beaver Festivities in Beaver City on Saturday.

Congratulations to the Cambridge football team on winning their first game of the season. Brian Ballou is the only Wilsonville player on the team. Brett and Dallas Palmer and Terry Mowry are members of the Cross Country team. Kellie Ballou, Riley Park and Whitney Rice are members of the volleyball team.

Velma Holtze returned to her home after being away five weeks for surgery and recuperation. Visitors since her return home have been Dick and Joan McLaughlin, Adeline Ballou, Sue Bethel and Virginia Rice.

Dick McLaughlin's sister and her husband, June and Robert Gilstrap from Hillsboro, Texas, arrived at the McLaughlin home Wednesday evening. Friday morning both couples drove to Lexington where they had tables at the annual Labor Day weekend antique and knick knack show.

Dora Shaw and Velma Holtze are enjoying each others company as they travel together to Cambridge for therapy to save gas.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Simmons and children of North Platte, Ivalene Simmons of Oshkosh and Caroline Erickson and Caden of Holdrege were Saturday overnight guests of Velma Holtze. They all enjoyed dinner at the Senior Center in Cambridge on Sunday. Heather Simmons and Caroline Erickson had come especially to attend the bachelorette party for Lyndzie Clouse.

Connie Wilson drove to Holdrege on Saturday and met Erma Johnson of Bridgeport. Connie assisted her in taking pictures at Erma's niece's wedding. She returned home on Sunday after swinging by the antique show in Lexington.

Dan and Georgia Stahr of Lincoln spent Labor Day weekend at their home in Wilsonville. They did lots of yard work at their home as well as her parent's home, the Charles Haags. On Sunday they were guests in the Haag home. Other guests were Charles and Betsy Haag of Oberlin, their children from Lincoln and son, Nathan and family from northwest Nebraska.

Dean and Margaret Brown accompanied Gary and Karen Brown to Columbus on Sunday for the baptism service of Riley Dean, son of Benjamin and Amanda Brown of Lincoln. Nick and Alicia Brown as well as many of Amanda's relatives also attended. All enjoyed a restaurant dinner hosted by Amanda's father.

Dean and Margaret Brown visited at the Bob Propes home Friday afternoon.
