HANSEN MUSEUM

By LEE FAVRE

"Magic, Myths, and Minerals: Chinese Jades from the Arthur M. Sackler Gallery" will premiere Friday at the Dane G. Hansen Memorial Museum, Logan.

Smithsonian Institute Traveling Exhibit Service Project Director Larry Hyman will be flying into the Hays airport from Washington to begin the installation process of the new exhibit. His help will be invaluable to us as there is an 80-pound informational entry panel that needs to be hung, along with his familiarization with the exhibit layout in general.

The exhibition includes 37 small jade sculptures dating from ancient times through the Qing

Dynasty (1644-1911).

The show explores the art of jade carving, touching on the significance and use of jade in Chinese society, and introduces the skills required to work jade. Most of the pieces are only a few centimeters across.

"Magic, Myths, and Minerals" will run from Friday through Sunday, Jan. 29.

Museum hours are: Monday - Friday, 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m.. Sundays and holidays 1 to 5 p.m..

Leftovers build snowy mountain

Keep in mind that Turkey Day is approaching and with it Turkey Leftover Week.

Those sandwiches are good for supper and even turkey carcass soup is tasty but are there still some leftover scrippies and scrappies? Before you resort to those famous flaming turkey wings, here's a new idea for using up the remnants of the feast.

In the course of our travels with Rotary, we were invited into many homes and experienced many lovely meals.

One of our favorites was served by a couple from India who invited us over to "build a mountain".

We made this from scratch, not having Thanksgiving leftovers in June, but one could also utilize leftover relishes, turkey, gravy and dressing.

Four times this amount served 50 so I think this would feed 10 dedicated munchers. Serve the leftover cranberry salad and pumpkin pie on the side and toast surplus dinner rolls in place of chapatti flat bread.

SNOW ON THE MOUNTAIN

Turkey bits, gravy and dressing scraps plus a can of cream of celery soup and a small jar of pimentos, chopped. Combine to make Turkey A La King and keep warm while building the mountain.

- Prepare and chop all these ingredients:
- 4 cups Jasmine rice, cooked in turkey broth if available
- 1 cup chopped tomatoes, drained
- 1 cup chopped red onion or green onions with tops
- 1 cup angle-sliced celery
- 2 large cans of crunchy chow mein noodles
- 1 13 to 16 ounce jar green olives
- 2 cups fine shredded sharp cheddar cheese
- 2 20-ounce cans pineapple tidbits or chunks
- 1 cup (or more) mixed peanuts, cashews, almonds, sunflower seeds
- 1 bag angelflake coconut

Use a large round tray and spread the rice all over it. (Our hosts used a huge brass coffee tray.) Layer on ingredients in order given, first heaping tomatoes in the center and sprinkling them sparingly with curry powder IF you like it. Now layer other ingredients around edges, in order to "build the mountain", being sure all ingredients are distributed evenly over tray. Sprinkle a bit of lime juice and Tabasco sauce as you go to your taste. Scatter the coconut thickly over all. I know it sounds strange but it will be good, I promise, and it is the "snow" on your mountain.

We sat on floor pillows in a big circle with the tray in the middle along with a chafing dish of hot turkey a la king. Each guest was given a wide shallow soup bowl and a large spoon. Fill dish from mountain, then ladle on the a la king to your own taste. Chapati bread was available, and a very dark Indian beer. Most of us chose hot aromatic tea. Our Indian hosts wore their native garb, sang Indian songs for us accompanied by a strange string instrument. It was a wonderful evening from which enduring friendships developed. How I would love to do it again. Praise the Lord for memories!

Police officer tells clubs how to avoid identity theft

Federated club women from Phillipsburg and WaKeeney joined the Mid-Century Federated Club for its annual Joint Federated dinner at the Norton American Legion on Oct. 24. The group had a salad buffet with meat, vegetables and fruit salads, homemade rolls and desserts.

Virginia Will introduced Toby Kuhn, Norton assistant chief of police, who spoke on "Beware: Identity Theft".

He warned that even though we live in a small town, we are still a target of identity theft.

Things to do to help prevent identity theft include:

- Don't carry your social security card in your wallet;
- When in a restaurant watch where your credit card goes to be swiped. Go along with it if necessary;
- Be alert for unsolicited phone calls asking for private information.

Officer Kuhn advised the members to call the police if they have any questions about identity theft.

President Beverly Kindler introduced guests Sixth District President Gloria Folkers, District Past President Marguerite Curr and District Conservation Chairman Eileen Bellairs.

Carolyn Higgason, Virginia Will, Lynn Nelson and Kay Hawks entertained the group with musical numbers.

The clubs next meeting will be Thursday. Doris Winteroth and Leta Donovan will be co-hostesses.
