

Now, move to the left. Logan Kats, left, and Travis Ray kept in step to a line dance.

Promenading with poise

The gymnasium featured a decorated lattice backdrop provided by Norton Gifts and Greenhouse. After the introductions, family and friends flooded the floor to take pictures of the prom gues.

Following the promenade, dinner was served in the Junior High School gymnasium and the dance followed at 8:30 p.m.

DJ Complete Music from Manhattan provided the upbeat music for the dance that lasted until midnight.

At 11 p.m. Prom Royalty were crowned. Chosen as Prom Princess was Sandy Almaraz, daughter of Royce and Juanita Fanders,

Lenora. Prom Prince was Kent Mann, son of Kurt and Georgia Mann, Norton. Prom King and Queen were chosen next. Reigning the rest of the night were Lacey Roe, daughter of Jeff and Lori Roe, Norcat and Nathan Broeckelman, son of Jim and Tami Broeckelman, Norton

The Post Prom Party, "Jays 007", was held in the Wilmeth Kirk Memorial gymnasium. Dodge ball was played in the wrestling room. Other activities included blow-up games, an obstacle course, bungee run, dance revolution, board games, Plinko, ring toss and Karaoke.

Those attending were able to win prizes and gift certificates donated by local businesses. All seniors who attended and stayed for Post Prom received a scholarship donated by businesses, organizations and the Post Prom committee.

The entire event was sponsored by parents of the juniors and seniors with the Post Prom committee chaired by Tami Broeckelman. Senior parents on the committee were Pam Engelbert, G. Mann, Janna Keiswetter, Ann Wolf, Kay Mills, Lana Jones and Janet Felton. Junior parents were Clark Cox, Deb Anderson, Tami Black, Shelley Ellis, Nancy Kent, Staci Richmond, Jenda Jones and Sandy Husted.

Mrs. Broeckelman said, "By watching the kids, it was easy to tell they had a blast. There was a whole lot of laughter going on. And, it was fun for us to watch them."

Mostly guys formed the Conga line that snaked its way in and out of the gymnasium.

Ashes, ashes, all fall down. At least most of the dancers at Norton's Prom Saturday night were doing the same dance.

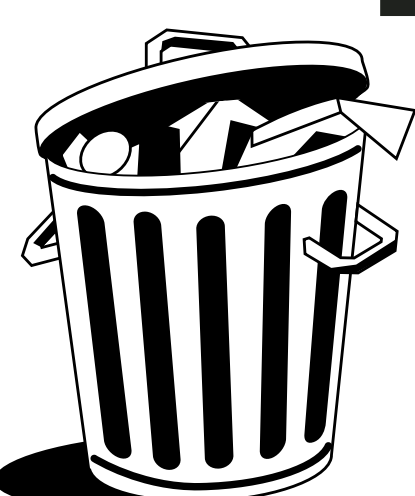

Morgan Bailey seemed to be lost in the music as she danced the night away at Saturday night's Junior/Senior prom at Norton Community High School.
