

OBITUARIES

Dennis J. McClelland Dec. 5, 1958 - Nov. 1, 2007

Dennis Jay McClelland, 48, Glade, died Nov. 1 at the University of Nebraska Medical Center, Omaha, Neb.

Mr. McClelland was born Dec. 5, 1958, in Norton to Robert and Donna (Schilowsky) McClelland.

He graduated from Northern Valley High School in 1977. He attended Colby Community Junior College where he received an associate degree. He worked as a journeyman locomotive machinist at Kyle Railroad.

On Jan. 1, 1995, he and Carla Baxter were married in Phillipsburg.

Mr. McClelland enjoyed Harley Davidson motorcycles, trading vehicles, four-wheeling, riding in the sand dunes and camping in the mountains.

He was a member of the First Christian Church, Phillipsburg.

His mother, Donna McClelland, preceded him in death.

Survivors include: his wife, Carla, of the home in Glade; a son, Jacob McClelland, of the home;

a daughter, Brooke McClelland, Hays; two stepsons Nathan Baxter, Fort Collins, Colo. and Joey Baxter, Tulsa, Okla.; his father, Robert McClelland, Almena; and his sister, Jan and Tom Long, Woodruff.

Funeral services were held Nov. 6 at the Huck Boyd Community Center, Phillipsburg, with Pastor Bill Thompson officiating.

Kelli Schemper sang, "I Can Only Imagine" and "Goodbye For Now".

Casket bearers were Dave Long, T-Bone, Jeff Keeler, Jerry Jones, Lyle Archer and Scott Ballard. Burial was in Marvin Cemetery, Glade.

Contributions are suggested to the Jacob McClelland Memorial Fund in care of Olliff-Boeve Memorial Chapel, 1115 2nd St., Phillipsburg, Kan. 67661.

Card of Thanks

No words can express our overwhelming gratitude for the support we've been given by friends, neighbors and extended family. The flowers, food and memorial gifts and your cards, kind words and prayers have meant the world to us and will never be forgotten.

Very special thanks to Alan and Peggy and the crew at the Branding Iron II for providing lunch after the service.

Women's club learns about need to conserve water

By BEVERLY KINDLER

W.C. Handy is quoted as saying, "You'll never miss the water till the well runs dry." This was the theme for the program at the October meeting of the Greater Federation of Women's Clubs, Mid-Century Club.

George Carter, District Conservationist, spoke to the group about the need for water conservation.

He showed a video, "Clean Water, It's Your Choice", that illustrated work being done in watershed districts.

He explained the Watershed Restoration and Protection Strategy (WRAPS) program. He pointed out that everybody lives in a watershed and everything you do in the watershed affects the soil, water, air, plants and animals.

Water is essential to life and it is our responsibility to take care of this natural resource and preserve it for future generations.

Fourteen members answered roll call by sharing what they did to conserve water.

Beverly Kindler, president, conducted the business meeting. Plans were made to send a contribution to Habitat for Humanity at Eagle Butte, S.D.; to provide a gift basket for the silent auction at the annual dinner dance hosted by Big Brothers Big Sisters; and to complete shoe boxes for Operation Christmas Child, the worldwide outreach of Samaritan's Purse. Mary Beth Boyd was hostess for the meeting with Vida Perrell, co-hostess.

Cookie/Candy Walk to help raise funds

The United Methodist Women are sponsoring the second Cookie and Candy Walk.

A "Cookie/Candy Walk" is an opportunity for you to select a variety of homemade cookies and candy for your family and/or holiday entertaining — without spending hours in the kitchen.

The walk will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 5 at the H & R Block office, 104 S. State, at the west entrance.

Shoppers will be handed a plastic glove and separate boxes for selecting choices of cookies and candy.

At the end of the "shopping" line, the boxes are weighed and you pay by the pound.

The committee will also have homemade cinnamon rolls and coffee available for sale.

Proceeds from the "Walk" will go to sponsor missions and ministry work.

Quilters serve up soup and share winter projects

By BEVERLY KINDLER

A banquet of soups and desserts was enjoyed at the November meeting of the Heritage Quilt Club. Twenty-nine members and nine guests were present.

The Show and Tell featured a variety of winter themes — snowmen, Santas, angels, nativity scenes on table runners and wall hangings. Margaret Breathouwer displayed a quilt featuring log cabin cats. Marcia Shoemaker's quilt, "Turning Twenty", was done in shades of pink and featured unique quilting motifs. Jo Pakkeber shared two picture mini quilts she had designed.

Thirteen members shared the blocks of the month — "Starflower" and "Amish Dahlia", they had made. Judy Carlyle and Janice Beale had completed quilts for the 2007 Christmas Quilt Drive for children in foster care.

It was reported that eight members participated in the bag workshops taught by Cindy McMullen and Shari Archer in October.

Judy Cressler, a member of the Scrappy Quilters Guild, Hoxie, presented a trunk show of quilts. The theme was quilts with a mission — patriotic, pioneer or social issues.

She concluded with a Bible quilt with blocks such as Bethlehem Rose, Star of the Magi, Crown of Thorns, Jacob's Ladder, Coat of Many Colors and Garden of Eden. She concluded her presentation by giving a mug rug to each person. The mug rugs featured words that represented "Fruits of the Spirit": love, truthfulness, kindness, hope, patience, understanding, etc. Judy challenged each person to make one or more mug rugs to share with another person.

Guests for the meeting were Clara Sebelius, Vicky Wendel, Heidi Linner, Sandy Preuss, Korene Triplett, Brenda Johnson, Sherry Rushton and from Hoxie, Kay Weber and Judy Cressler.

Hostesses were Judy Fawcett, Judy Luft, Lynn Tacha, Anise Gill and Jan Volgamore.

Plan ahead to make trip to store fun with/for kids

Children are bombarded with television commercials. The average American child sees 40,000 TV commercials a year. A 2005 study found that half of the TV commercials aimed at children were devoted to food (candy, snacks, sugary cereals, and fast foods). Do not let the commercials dictate what you purchase. Always evaluate the merits of what you purchase regardless of its commercial popularity.

To make grocery shopping easy, plan ahead. Children who are tired and hungry are more likely to misbehave while grocery shopping. Shop after nap time is over. Be sure to allow your child time to properly wake up and have a nutritious snack before leaving for the store.

Most adults are not overly fond of shopping for groceries. Remember young children are not prepared for marathon shopping experiences. Short trips are better.

Let your child help put the food items in the grocery cart. Make them an important part of the process of purchasing food.

Be prepared for the checkout counter! The candy and toys are waiting as a temptation. Be firm and encourage your child to help put food on the checkout counter. Allow your child to hand the payment to the cashier. Punishing young children who want all those goodies at the check out counter will not help them understand what behavior is expected.

As an adult, parents need to remember that grocery shopping is another of life's experiences that children need to learn about. Make the trip a fun one for everyone. Plan ahead!
