Norton Community Schools receives grant

Kansas Coordinated School Health has announced the schools and school districts that have been awarded grants for health and wellness programs for the 2009/10 school year.

Norton Community Schools has been selected as a grant recipient.

Kansas Coordinated School Health works to bring school personnel, parents, community members and community resources together to address policies and programs that focus on nutrition, physical activity, tobacco prevention and other topics that impact the health and wellness of all children. The grant program is designed to assist schools and school districts in making progress toward exemplary wellness policies.

"Healthy children make better students and better students make healthy communities," is the mission of Kansas Coordinated School Health, according to the program directors, Dr. Mark Thompson of the Kansas State Department of Education and Jane Shirley of the Kansas Department of Health and Environment. "We hope the funding will assist schools to develop a culture that supports students in adopting lifelong healthy behaviors. Schools can be a valuable link in communities by bringing many resources together for success."

More information about Kansas Coordinated School Health can be found at their website, www.kshealthykids.org.

"The Norton Community Schools plan to use the grant money to support our Wellness Fair at the Junior and Senior High School, food tasting activities and staff wellness activities," said Pam Menagh, grant coordinator.
