Extension office updates

In the Extension Office We have some newly printed brochures for 2010: Chemical Weed Control for Cropland, Pasture and Non-cropland; the 2009 Variety Performance Reports for Corn, Sorghum, Alfalfa, Soy Beans and Canola; Farmers Tax Guide for completing the Farm Income Taxes, 2009 Custom Rates and Pocket Size Field Record Book for Beef cows. Kansas State Extension Forestry

This program has distributed seedling trees and shrubs for many years. To aid farmers, ranchers, landowners and homeowners to add investments and protect their soil, water, habitat and improve livability on the farm.

Kansas Forest Service has begun taking orders for the low-cost tree and shrub seedlings it offers yearly through the Conservation Tree Planting Program.

Shipping season is March 8 through May 10 which allows landowners to plant their seedlings during the optimal planting season of late March through early April. Landowners are encouraged to place their orders as early as possible in the season to ensure they get the plants they

Approved uses for the plants include home and/or livestock windbreaks, living snow fences,

Christmas tree plantations, firewood lots, habitats for game birds and wildlife, barriers to reduce noise pollution, blocking ugly view, making property lines and creating habitat for songbirds. Landowners are quickly finding they have many of the same issues needed for conservation. Of course, landowners mostly see the needed plantings as a matter of improving their new quality of living. But those plantings can help conserve natural resources, too. Even though a single landowner may only own an acre or two, collectively these small acre tracts comprise large amounts of land. By working together, we can have a tremendous impact on the environment.

The program offers more than 30 one to two year old species which are selected for hardiness in the central high plains. The seedlings are mostly 12-18 inch tall bare-root stock, depending Special offerings include four types of mixed-species bundles, meant to benefit wildlife-the songbird, pheasant (western Kansas), quail (eastern Kansas) and wildlife mast (nut-producing) bundles.

All other plants come in onespecies bundles of twenty five seedlings. Order forms and more information are available at the Twin Creeks Extension District Office – Norton or Decatur County, or also you can contact the local Conservation District Office.

Dormant Oil Sprays for Fruit Trees

There are a number of dormant sprays used on fruit to control various diseases and insects, but a dormant oil spray is designed to control scale insects. If you have a problem with scale, now is the time to start looking for an opportunity to spray. Normally spray should be applied by March 1st, especially with peaches and nectarines. Apples are tougher, and application may be delayed up to the green tip stage. Temperatures need to be at least 40° so spray has a chance to dry before freezing. If the spray does freeze before it dries, plant injury can occur. Applying the spray during the morning will help insure that it dries properly. Thorough coverage of limbs, branches and twigs is vital for good control.

Compliance with the average Adjusted Gross Income limitations is an eligibility requirement to receive payments and benefits under many of the programs administered by FSA and NRCS.

The review and verification of Adjusted Gross Income compliance certifications submitted by program participants is required to ensure the accuracy of payments and the integrity of these programs. FSA and the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) have finalized a data-sharing process for average Adjusted Gross Income compliance and verification. IRS will report the results of this process to FSA on a regular basis. FSA will use this information to determine whether a program participant complies with the average Adjusted Gross Income limitations, or if further review is required.

The average Adjusted Gross Income verification and data comparison processes begin with sibility of refunding 2009 program participants providing consent to payments. The consent forms IRS for the use and disclosure of tax information to FSA for Adjusted Gross Income compliance

New Physician Helps Keep Patients Closer to Home

Help has arrived for those patients in Western Kansas suffering from kidney disorders. This summer Hays Medical Center hired its first in-house nephrologist, Johanna "Joni" McCullagh, M.D. The addition of Dr. McCullagh, medical director of the Nephrology Center program, means advanced kidney care is now available for patients closer to home.

Dr. McCullagh and the Nephrology Center staff provide a variety of services, including caring for patients with:

- Kidney failure
- Hypertension and hypertensive kidnev disease
- Diabetes and diabetic nephropathy
- Inflammation, scarring or hardening in the kidney
- Cystic kidney disease (polycystic) • Inflammation of blood vessels in
- the kidneys
- Kidney stones

• Management of dialysis patients, transplant patients and those with end stage renal disease

One of the biggest benefits of this addition to Hays Medical Center is that the hospital now has greater capacity to care for patients in need of regular dialysis. While the hospital previously treated dialysis patients, they can now treat more patients - and patients who need a higher level of care - eliminating the burden and stress of travel for additional families in the area.

Dr. McCullagh, a Wichita native, grew up in Kansas City and completed her education at the University of Kansas School of Medicine. She completed both her residency in Internal Medicine and her fellowship in Nephrology and Hypertension at the University of Kansas Medical Center. Dr. McCullagh is certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine and holds memberships with the American Society of Nephrology, American College of Physicians and the American Medical Association.

Wanting to stay within driving distance of family and friends, Dr. McCullagh and her family were excited to make the move to Hays.
