Wedding on the beach in April

Klare Christina Zillinger and David Ken Givens plan to wed April 16 with a sunset beach ceremony in Maui, Hawaii. The bride is the daughter of Kerry and Marcia Zillinger of Phillipsburg. The groom is the son of Elvis and Patricia Givens of Stuttgart.

The bride graduated from Phillipsburg High School, then continued on to Colby Community College to complete her nursing degree. Klare currently works at Norton County Hospital as a Registered Nurse.

The groom graduated from Jennings High School, continued to Dodge City Community College to receive an associate degree in Criminal Justice, following up at Fort Hays State University to complete his bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice. David currently works at the Kansas Correctional facility in Norton.

The couple will spend their honeymoon in Hawaii. A reception will follow in Phillipsburg at the Phillips County 4-H building on April 24.

CORRECTION

In the March 16 newspaper, the headline on page eight was incorrect. Katie Kersenbrock is not a local student and was the Iron Man Triathlon champion.

Easter and Eggs go together

It's true. Easter and eggs and the tradition of coloring eggs with your family at Easter seem to go together "like peas and carrots", according to Forrest Gump.

Eggs are decorated, used as decorations, and hunted at Easter. However, adults must still take the responsibility of keeping the youngest members of the family safe from food poisoning by answering the question, are these Easter Eggs safe?

•Dyeing eggs: After hard cooking eggs, dye them and return them to the refrigerator within 2 hours. If eggs are to be eaten, use a food-safe coloring. As with all foods, persons dyeing the eggs should wash their hands before handling the eggs.

•Decorations: One Easter bread recipe is decorated with dyed, cooked eggs in the braided bread.

After baking, serve within 2 hours or refrigerate and use within 3 to 4 days.

•Blowing out egg shells: Because some raw eggs may contain Salmonella, you must use caution when blowing out the contents to hollow out the shell for decorating, such as for Ukrainian Easter eggs. Use only eggs that have been kept refrigerated and are uncracked. To destroy bacteria that may be present on the surface of the egg, wash the egg in hot water and then rinse in a solution of 1 teaspoon liquid chlorine bleach per half cup of water. After blowing out the egg, refrigerate the contents and use within 2 to 4 days.

•Hunting eggs: Hard-cooked eggs for an egg hunt must be prepared with care to prevent cracking the shells. If the shells crack, bacteria could contaminate gathered from laying hens should be refrigerated as soon as possible. After eggs are refrigerated, they need to stay that way.

A cold egg left out at room temperature can sweat, facilitating the growth of bacteria. Refrigerated eggs should not be left out more than 2 hours.

When shell eggs are hard cooked, the protective coating is washed away, leaving bare the pores in the shell for bacteria to enter and contaminate it.

Hard cooked eggs should be refrigerated within 2 hours of cooking and used within a week.

If you have further questions about egg safety any time of year, please feel free to contact your local County or District K-State Research and Extension Office or e-mail Tranda Watts at twatts@ksu.edu.

the inside. Eggs should be hidden in places that are protected from dirt, pets, and other sources of bacteria. The total time for hiding and hunting eggs should not exceed 2 hours. The "found" eggs must be re-refrigerated and eaten within 7 days of cooking.

In Great Grandmother's day, eggs were not always refrigerated. So why is it so important to refrigerate eggs? The answer is in temperature fluctuation. With the concern about Salmonella, eggs

Snow on first day of Spring! No!

It has been awhile since you heard from some of your fellow readers, so here's a peek into my recent correspondence. As you know, my delight is a letter, email or telephone call from a reader and I have had a number of contacts lately that certainly brightened my outlook. Missouri has had a miserable, dreary, cold winter so my outlook could use a little sunshine. Today is lovely but snow is forecast for Saturday. Is it right to have snow on the first day of Spring? I don't think so!

The column about our Seth Thomas mantel clock struck a chord with many of you. Tales of souvenir cuckoo clocks, squeaking clocks, kitty cat clocks with swinging tails and rolling eyes, our busy lives are dominated by clocks of all descriptions. I am happy to report that David dug our old clock out of the closet and took it to be repaired. Charlie Worden charged us $7.50 to repair it in 1963, but I suspect 2010 repairs might be just a tad higher. At any rate, it will be dusted off and put back into active service one of these days. Maybe there's hope for us old timers yet.

The word painting of spring's advent on the prairie was another offering that received much favorable comment. One of the nicest was from a friend who had her fourth grade granddaughter read it as an example of descriptive writing in order to help her with a writing assignment. Another was from an artist acquaintance who lamented that neither my words nor her paints could capture the sweet smell of the springtime prairie. However, the recent farm story in which the cat had kittens in the barn did bring that distinctive barn aroma back to a city gal who formerly lived on a farm.

For the avid fans of Cook's Corner Culinary Catastrophe Hall of Flame awards, I do apologize for neglecting you. No longer having a kitchen has cut down on personal kitchen disasters, also my children have removed all sharp objects from my apartment, so there is little to report. Send me your stories if you have the gumption to share them.

'Tis the season of weekend trade and collector shows in the metro area. In the last few weeks one could attend the boat show, the auto show, the home and garden show, the rock show and coming up, a glass show, to name just a few. I was taken to the KC Gem and Mineral Society Show last weekend where we had a wonderful time digging through boxes of rocks and viewing exhibits. One of the big attractions this year was a replica display of the Hope Diamond that nearly knocked my socks off. That is quite a hunk of carbon! If our spring snow holds off we plan to take in the KC Glass Collectors Show Saturday. No space for collecting nowadays, but I fill my eyes to capacity with enough glorious glass to last until next year's show. Soon we'll be into the festival and craft fair season which will ward off Saturday boredom well into the fall.

In the meantime, signs of spring fever are appearing around the Carlyle. Bunnies, ducklings and daffodils decorate door wreaths. Easter egg trees add a festive touch to the dining room and a perky daisy bouquet blooms on the grand piano.

A bunny rabbit bucket of eggs mysteriously appeared at my door last Saturday. Dan contributed a fuzzy yellow chicken to my menagerie. Today I came home to a lovely arrangement of white tulips and pussy willow fronds. Now if the weatherman would just get the message, perhaps we could proceed?

Among all the hoopla of the season, keep in mind there is also a "reason for this season" just as the saying goes for Christmas. Don't let your children grow up thinking bunnies and chocolate eggs are what Easter is all about.

FYI

The Norton Church of God choir will be presenting the Easter cantata "He's Still the Lamb" on Sunday, March 28th at 10:45 a.m. The cantata is directed by Mary Luehrs. Soloists in the presentation are Terry and Larry Hillman. It is narrated by Phil Loughry. The public is invited to attend and hear the message of Easter through song.

A whole-hog benefit will be held from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday, March 28, at the Norcatour City Building for cancer victim Randy Allen. Allen was diagnosed with colon cancer in December and underwent surgery in Denver in February. He had planned to donate a kidney to Ron Temple, who is on kidney dialysis, but the cancer was discovered when he was undergoing tests for the transplant in Omaha.

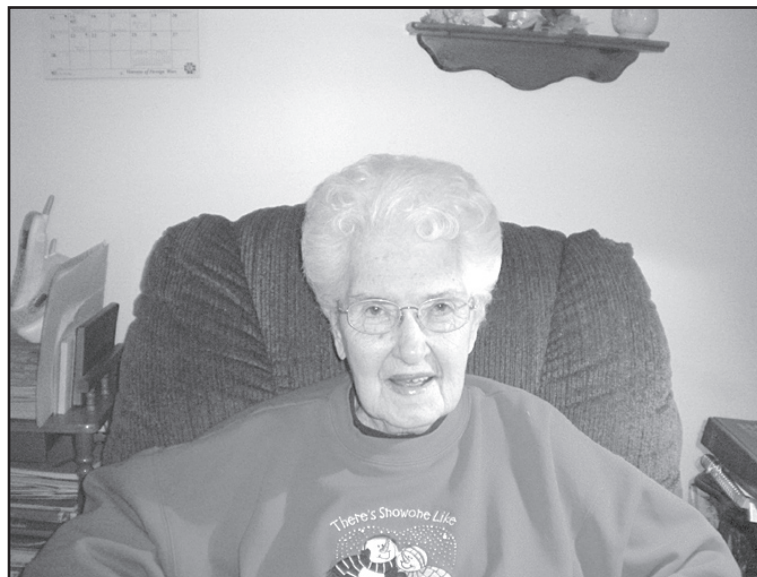

The supper is being sponsored by Temple and the Norcatour Commercial Club. Hogs have been donated for the meal and others are asked to bring salads and desserts. Donations also may be sent to The Bank, Box 156, Norcatour, Kan., 67653.

For questions, call Jerry Wescott at (785) 871-7863.

An orientation session for parents of eighth graders (freshmen next year) will be held in the music room of the junior-senior high school on March 25 at 7 p.m. Counselor Shane Miller will host the meeting which will cover Kansas Board of Regents Qualified Admissions requirements, Norton Community High School graduation requirements, the enrollment process, school policies and expectations.

You're invited to the annual Marble Family and Friends Soup Supper. It will be Sat., March 27 at the Norton Senior Center, 208 W. Main. Doors open at 1 p.m. We'll eat soup about 5:30 p.m. Questions: contact Kathy Sechrest 402-784-2040, ksech57@hotmail.com., Ron Marble 785-877-5444 or Deloris White, 308-324-3304.
