By LOUSIE CRESSLER
 Stan and Ramona Shaw spent last week visiting Cindy and Danny Black, Logan and Bowen in Carlsbad, New Mexico. Additional guests during the week were Katie and Zach Golemboski and Lexy, Colby.
 Terri Hanke spent March 13-20 in Puerto Penasco, Mexico on her ninth mission trip. Puerto Penasco is about three hours south of San Diego, Calif. The group of 51 people from all over Kansas ranged in ages six to 60. They traveled as far as Tucson, Ariz. the first day, spending the night in a Christian high school there. Terri's group took on building two four room houses in just three days. One 22 by 22 was for a family of six, the other house was for a family of 11 that included grandparents, parents, in-laws and children.
 This was a family currently living in the shell of an old school bus. Good weather and great teamwork allowed both groups to get the cement floors done in record time. Part of the group was happy to see familiar faces from their 2009 mission trip. Included were a woman named Gloria, her husband and two small daughters. Last year Gloria saw the group's bus get stuck in the soft sand and walked over two miles to a construction site and convinced the foreman to use his heavy equipment to dig the bus out.

 They repaid her kindness by obtaining some tar paper for her roof, nails and other building supplies. Unfortunately, they learned Gloria spent some time in the hospital and all of the supplies were stolen as well as their furniture and clothing. Even more shocking to the group, while Gloria received treatment for cancer, her husband and daughters camped out on the hospital lawn. They said this was common for anyone who could not afford a hotel. By the time the homes were completed on Wednesday the group leader obtained more building material, collected clothes from within the volunteer group and left behind all the extra food they would be unable to take back across the border.

 After the houses were finished and blessed on Wednesday, everyone enjoyed a relaxing afternoon at the beach at Rocky Point. The luxury resort is about 10 miles from the slum area where the houses were built. They had a great time swimming, shopping, eating and arranged a two hour harbor cruise that included a light supper and two very loud mariachi bands. Besides enjoying the bands and food, they also saw many dolphins playing in the water.

 On Thursday morning everyone enjoyed a few hours shopping at the local market after breaking camp and then headed back to Tucson to spend the night at the same school. Part of the group's return trip was delayed when they lost the transmission in a bus, but it was quickly repaired.
 The vehicle Terri was in was also slightly delayed when the trailer it was pulling was hit by a pickup that spun out on the icy road. The damage wasn't bad enough that the trailer could not be pulled home. They arrived back in Garden City about 4 a.m. on March 20.
 Many families were joined by their children for the Easter festivities. All of Mike and Vicki Bailey's children attended church with them. Visiting Imogene Kennan was her daughter Janeil had three of her grandchildren with her.

Dilling, Goodland, and granddaughter Genia, Norton. Jesse and Megan Carter, Anna and Clayton, Oberlin; Abby and Madi DuBois, Norton, attended church with Ken and Julie Carter. Tommie Kump

 It was so nice to have children attend the United Methodist Church services Sunday.
