Southern Valley holds their annual three-on-three basketball tournament

Saturday, March 26, was a busy day for the volunteers helping run the annual Southern Valley 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament. 2011 edition.

They had to keep an estimated 125 boys and girls in grades five through 12 basically in two rooms on a tight schedule over a time frame of about seven hours. Not an easy job! It takes a lot of organization, and the players had the responsibility of being in the gym when they were up next, as there was no down time between

Some teams played at the tourney's start of 9 a.m. and their next game might be early afternoon. The tourney ended about 4:30 p.m. and had 38 girls playing among the 125. The boys ranged in height from 4'8" to 6'7" and the girls ranged from 5'1" to 6'0", a real mix of players. Regardless of all the work and organization needed, according to one of the principals behind the program Mike Quinn, the event will be held next year. He commented that the event used to be held over the Easter holiday and this year's competed for attendance with three high school proms and several track meets.

The teams this year came from as far north as Lexington, east to Lincoln, south to the Phillipsburg area, and west to Wauneta/ Palisade.

He thanked the many volunteers as well as two paid referees, four court helpers who judged out of bounds, etc, for the event; and the high school girls who ran the clocks and kept the score sheets. The girls were paid by the Southern Valley High School Booster Club with those funds going toward various camp expenses in the summer months.

Ouinn commented that the concession stand was a big success selling out of nearly everything including 75 pizzas, sandwiches, hot dogs, nachos, fruit, soda pop and other foods.

from Hastings Adams Central was brought by former Southern Valley High School teacher Lonnie Abbott and Southern Valley High School employee J.D. Wolzen's son brought a team from Lincoln's Norris High School.

Quinn said results of the daylong competition were as follows: GIRLS Grade 5-6 with 1st, Adams Central Patriots; 2nd, Baby G's of Southern Valley High School; BOYS 5-6 with 1st, War Cats of Blue Hill/Red Cloud; 2nd, NBA All-Stars of Alma; GIRLS 7-8with1st, 4 Famous M.J.'s of Southern Valley High School, 2nd, Geeks-N-Sneaks of South-

Quinn added that a girls team ern Valley High School; BOYS 7-8 with 1st, Tropics of Southern Valley High School, 2nd, Red Storm of McCook; GIRLS 11-12 with 1st, Ultra Violet of Norris High School (Lincoln), 2nd, Wolfe Pack of Southern Valley High School; BOYS 11-12 with 1st, The Big 3-1/2 of Wauneta Palisade, 2nd, Ballas of Southern Valley High School, 3rd, Rough Riders of Norton, KS.

Winners and runners-up all received a specially designed 3-on-3 t-shirt, and everyone participating also got a free t-shirt with their registration, but this shirt was a different design.
