Another possibility is a part-time person for awhile, the sheriff said. That might help to get the change over going.

The commissioners said they would look at all the possibilities and see what could be done.

In other business, the commissioners:

- OKed a social networking protocol for the sheriff's department.

No other county department is allowed to use social networking but the sheriff needs it for some of that office's tasks.

- Told the sheriff to hire a part-time dispatcher to take care of off time.

"You have to," said Commissioner Miller, noting that the dispatch has to be covered at all times. "You don't have a choice."
