Nominations open for conservation awards

Twin Creeks Extension agent Keith Van Skike announced recently that the Kansas Bankers Soil Conservation Awards Program to recognize individuals will be held again this year and nominations are being accepted for the recognition.

"This program is being sponsored by the agriculture committee of the Kansas Bankers Association, local banks and the government agencies that cooperate with the District Conservation office," Van Skike said. "We are asking for nominations to be submitted by Oct. 11 to either the local Extension Office or District Conservation Office."

The purpose of this program is to stimulate a greater interest in the conservation of the agricultural resources in Kansas by giving recognition to those farmers and landowners who have made outstanding progress in the establishment of soil and water conservation on their farms. Included in the awards program are a soil conservation award, windbreak award and wildlife award. There are also awards for: Energy Conservation, Water Quality, Water Conservation.

Points to be considered in selecting soil conservation award winners include (1) use of land according to its capabilities; (2) completeness of farm plan applied; (3) balance of farm enterprise; (4) quality of conservation work done and maintenance of practices; and (5) special practices unique to the farming operation.

The windbreak award considers windbreaks which provide protection from damaging winds for residential, or other structures, areas, livestock, or fields. Windbreaks should be a minimum of three years old. Wildlife habitat awards recognize individuals for establishment and maintenance of habitat to encourage and protect wildlife.

Points to consider in the other awards for energy conservation:

Efficient use of energy in farmstead buildings, equipment, and operations including but not limited to building isolation; heating and cooling such as ground source heat pumps; lighting; and striving for peak fuel efficiency in high energy consumption components such as irrigation pumping.

Production of energy from renewable sources.

Water Quality: water quality improvement and protection work.

Adoption of cropping, grazing, and animal feeding operation practices to reduce sediment, nutrient, and bacterial contamination of surface water. Conversion of cropland to total not-till farming systems (high residue levels), planting riparian areas, water buffer strips installing livestock waste management systems, rotational grazing, grazing out of riparian areas, creation of stabilized stream crossing.

Water Conservation Award

Adoption of improved irrigation management techniques, improvement, and remote monitoring and/or control.

Improvement and/or development of on-farm or ranch water supplies.

These are separate awards but all have a familiar theme of conserving water and energy resources, adapting farm related practices and equipment to utilize forms of energy, improving quality and quantity of water in and around a farming system.

Nominations can be made by any person in the county. Nomination forms can be picked up at the Norton County Extension Office or Norton County Conservation District. The nominations should be returned by Oct. 11

LYLE NEWS

We have had a few chilly mornings, but mostly the weather has been warm enough to go without jackets. It was especially nice on Saturday when Rowan Bader celebrated his first birthday at the park in Hays. It was a little windy but that didn't discourage the kids from climbing, swinging and going down the slides. There were balloons flying and popping, bubbles, cupcakes, parents, grandparents and gifts. Rowan's parents are Wade and Vicky Bader of Catherine and grandson of Tilia High. I went with Carol and John Moye, and they brought grandchildren, Kylie Gruwell and Skylar Hawkins home for an overnight visit.

Remember Oct. 15, Saturday evening--the potluck supper at 6 p.m. followed by music and fun at the Lyle Community Building. It will be the yearly benefit for the community building. Free-will donations will be taken to help pay for the upkeep and bills. At the same time, the winning ticket will be drawn for the quilt. Tickets are being sold at $1 each and five for $6. Proceeds from the quilt will go to the Lyle Church.

Carol Moye took Dwight Wood and I to Grand Island, Neb. where Dwight had an appointment with a surgeon who got his dialysis site ready for use again. We were very thankful that the procedure was successful. He was able to return home that evening.

Gary and Keith Anthony both had doctor's appointments on Tuesday of last week.

Seventeen people enjoyed the Senior Citizen potluck on Friday, followed by cards. Friday, Oct. 7 will be the next card day.

The Lyle Church group also had their monthly potluck where 12 people met, ate and visited. Afterward, Charlie and Judy Easton did some work for Toots Magers.

AUCTIONEER NOTES: The Ruzicka's have collected antiques for years. For this sale, they are offering items that have been in storage. I have not personally seen all of their items so we will all be surprised at the full contents of this auction. With what I have seen, I do not feel you will be disappointed with the items offered. The Pavlicek's are keeping a few wood-working tools but the bulk of Murray's collection is being sold at this sale. He says he is doing a few more projects but those projects do not require the nice line he has needed before. Audrey is also offering antique and collectible items from the house. The coins are some that will add to your collection nicely. Do plan to spend this Saturday with my crew and me as October comes alive with fall colors!
