Round 'em up

Already thinking ahead to next fall, Eisenhower Elementary leaders hosted a Kindergarten roundup Monday evening at the school. The evening featured a parents meeting, along with the opportunity for next year's kindergarten students and their parents to meet the kindergarten teachers. Eisenhower Principal Cory reported that 39 potential students were in attendance with their parents at the meeting. That number, the principal said, is slightly lower than in years past, but some families were not able to attend and the school is expecting to see slightly higher numbers enroll before school starts in the fall.
