

Elvis: A tribute

The Norton County Arts Council brought a favorite performer back to Norton on Sunday. In 2008, Joseph Hall, an Elvis tribute artist first wowed the Norton audience and he returned to do it again but bigger and better on his Elvis Rock 'N' Remember Tribute Tour. A bus carrying his fan club from Lincoln, Neb. added to the over 200 fans in attendance. Teddy bears were thrown out to audience members and women, young, and old raced to the front of the stage for the chance of receiving a scarf and or a kiss from the talented Elvis look-a-like. He not only looks like Elvis but sounds just like him, too. He currently has his own production in Branson, Mo., the flavor of which was brought to Sunday's performance.

LYLE NEWS

Easter Morning was beautiful. People gathered in front of the Lyle Church as they have for years; ever since they stopped having the Sunrise Service at "Jericho Gulch" over in Huff's pasture. No matter where we celebrate the Resurrection of Jesus, it is a meaningful time, with people getting together, singing and being thankful; and the sun comes up right on schedule. We enjoyed the good breakfast and fellowship in the Community Building. Thanks to everyone who came. Let's do it again next year.

There was something special, also, Sunday morning, as we got to sing, "Happy 94th Birthday to Toots Magers. Thirty-four family members from California, Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas had a birthday party for her later with lilies, bunnies and gifts.

June Jolly helped Laveda McFarland celebrate her birthday with eight tables of relatives and friends at the Coppermill.

Kathy Van Meter and Lloyd Frandsen had supper in Glen Elder at the home of Kip, Danielle and Colton Jarboe. Kip's parents from Tipton, and Tim, Jolene and Clinton Nejd1 were also guests. They managed to miss herds of deer on the road, and do a little shopping in Red Cloud.

Joyce Sumner and Jackie Porter brought Bob Schoenrad to the card game on Friday, and would have brought Eleanor Jensen, but Eleanor was enjoying a visit from her son.

Carol and John Moye and great-grandchildren, Kylie Gruwell and Skylar Hawkins ate Sunday lunch with me. The girls persuaded John to take them to the Elden Auker park. All the children love to play there. Later I got pictures of Kiyra Briggs from her grandmother, Tracey Pershing. How can I be so lucky-or fortunatate- or blessed? They all mean the same to me.

Aging conference planned for April 27

A one-day conference on issues and opportunities associated with older adults and the aging process is recommended for them, their families and caregivers.

The 2012 edition of the regional Full Circle Aging Expo is titled: "The Best is Yet to Be," said Tranda Watts, K-State Research and Extension multi-county specialist and spokesperson for the conference planning committee.

The one-day conference on issues and opportunities associated with older adults and the aging process will be Friday, April 27 in Hill City.

The conference is set for 9:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Parish Hall.
