In the opener, the Blue Jays took advantage of a big first inning to score 10 runs and eventually win 12-2 but did not have that firepower in the nightcap where they lost 11-7.

First game

Bermis, the opposing team was called, got one run on two hits off Norton pitcher Tug Keiswetter in the top of the first but the outcome of the game was never in doubt after Norton had the 10-run bottom of the first to jump ahead 10-1.

The Blue Jays batted around as lead-off hitter Zach Hartwell walked, Dakota Dreher singled, Dalton Miller, Keiswetter, Andrew Ellis, Trevor Lewis and Jordan Wahlmeier all walked, Drew Schrum and Jacob Brooks got on base on errors, Hartwell walked for the second time, Dreher hit his second single of the inning and Keiswetter singled.

Hartwell scored twice and the rest scored once.

Bermis got one run after a double in the top of the third to make it 10-2.

In the bottom of the inning, Brooks doubled and Dreher walked, both scored and Keiswetter singled to make the final tally 12-2.

Norton had just five hits in the game, eight walks and just two strike outs.

Leading hitters were Dreher and Keiswetter, both two for two with the bat.

Winning pitcher was Keiswetter, who allowed four hits, struck out seven batters and walked just one.
