For 5th and 6th grade students, the forum is intended to help warn youth of the dangers of drug and alcohol use and steer them away from poor choices. Agency offers emergency loans

"Farmers in Norton and Phillips Counties, who suffered crop or livestock losses due to snowstorms occurring Feb. 20-23, 2013 may now apply for Farm Service Agency emergency loans," Farm Loan Officer, Pat L. Bohl, said recently. Applications for assistance will be accepted until Dec. 26, 2013.

The current interest rate is 2.375 percent but is subject to monthly changes until the loan is approved.

The Agency's Farm Loan Programs staff is committed to new and existing customers, customer goals and our rural communities. The Agency's service extends beyond the typical loan, offering customers ongoing consultation, advice and creative ways to make your farm business thrive. At the Farm Service Agency, we want to be your lender of first opportunity to overcome these adverse weather conditions and rebuild your operation to get back on track. The Agency's loan staff can refer customers to other public and commercial financing sources that can serve as a blend with the Agency's farm loan programs.

Agency loans covering physical losses may be used to replace installations, equipment, livestock, or buildings (including homes), lost through this disaster.

Agency loans covering production losses may be used to buy feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock, or to make payments on real estate and chattel debts. "Funds can also be used for other essential operating and living expenses," Bohl said.

To be eligible for an emergency disaster loan, an applicant must be operating a family size farm or ranch, must be unable to get credit elsewhere, and must have suffered a qualifying physical and/or production loss from the disaster.

Farmers who suffered at least a 30 percent reduction to at least one cropping enterprise, may have a qualifying production loss. Emergency disaster production loss loans cover 100 percent of qualifying losses.

Farmers and ranchers that think they may be eligible should contact the Norton County Farm Service Agency Office or call 785-877-5156 for additional information and how to apply.

Older Americans month is celebrated for 50th year

This May marks the 50th anniversary of Older Americans Month, a proud tradition of honoring the value that elders contribute to our communities. This year's Older Americans Month theme—"Unleash the Power of Age!"—highlights the significant contributions made by older Americans across our state and our nation.

"A true measure of our society is how we honor the wisdom and experience of the elderly. I am proud that the State of Kansas respects and supports older Kansans," Governor Sam Brownback said. "An old German proverb teaches us that, 'The oldest trees often bear the sweetest fruit.' This is something that we should all keep in mind when we consider the contributions that older people continue to make to our state and nation."

While the Kansas Department

on Aging and Disability Services provides services, support and resources to older adults year-round, Older Americans Month is a great opportunity to reach out to elders and show special appreciation for their presence in our communities - and our lives.

Secretary Shawn Sullivan says, "The older population in our state has a lifetime of experience to share with us and have paved the road of opportunity for younger Kansans. It is our moral and ethical responsibility to make sure we take care of our elders through improved health care and access to resources."

To learn more about activities and events planned for Older Americans Month, or to find ideas about what you can do to unleash the power of age, visit the Older Americans Month website at www.olderamericansmonth.acl.gov.
