Thieves ditch cars at both ends

A couple of car thieves couldn't figure night before. out whether they were coming or going Norton and ditched it in Oberlin, then stole a van there, ditching it in Norton.

Norton Police Chief Lynn Menagh said they received a report that a 1998 Mercury Cougar was missing from the 400 block of N. Norton Ave. on Monday morning. The car had been taken sometime the Sheriff's Department received a call

Then police received a call from Monday, as they apparently stole a car in Decatur County that a 1993 Mercury Villager van had been stolen from the Lori Miller residence at 606 N. Wilson in Oberlin sometime between 7:50 and 8:05 a.m. Ms. Miller said she had started to warm it up to take her kids to school.

Shortly thereafter, the Norton County about an abandoned van three miles east and a mile north of Norton. When they checked it out, they found that it was indeed the van that had been stolen from Oberlin.

Chief Menagh said after they found the van, they got a call from the Oberlin Police Department saying that they had found the stolen Cougar at the corner of Elm and Marks in that city, just a block or so from where the van disappeared.

He said the Kansas Highway Patrol, Norton Police and Norton County Sheriff's Department searched for the two men last seen in the vicinity of the van. Chief Menagh said as of noon Monday, the two hadn't been found. The van had some damage, but it wasn't known if it happened before or after be-

County to answer questions about proposed new landfill

By CYNTHIA HAYNES

Trying to put in a small landfill is a time consuming and frustrating project, Norton County commissioners have found.

Early last month solid Waste Supervisor Curt Archibald received a letter the end of the month. "It's a clayside from the state Department of Health hill." and Environment saying that before continuing with the project there are 54 questions to be answered ranging from a requirement for original signatures on documents instead of copies to a response from the U.S. Department of Agriculture-Natural Resources Conservation Service, which declared the 24-acre site prime farmland.

"They're calling our 24 acres prime farmland," Commission Chairman John Miller said at a meeting towards

The Federal Aviation Administration was worried that the landfill was only a little over a mile from the runway of the municipal airport. The ad-

Kansas State University will be having an in-depth weed management school on Wednesday, Dec. 17, at the 4-H Building in Norton.

K-State will also hold the school in Grainfield on Tuesday, Dec. 16, at the 4-H Building.

The class is being held to promote effective, economical and environmentally-sound weed management for crops for anyone interested in the subject.

The first 60 people to register will be charged $10, which includes lunch and handout materials. Everyone thereafter will be charged $30. Registration forms can be picked up at the county extension office. The deadline to register is Wednesday, Dec. 10. Extension weed scientist Dallas

Peterson and Multi-County Extension agronomist Brian Olson will be presenters for topics including: Sprayer calibration — attendees to split into groups and learn to calibrate a sprayer. They will learn to find the right tips and screens, calculate the rate of flow, and calibrate the flow of the sprayer. Integrated weed management — will show how crop management can increase the competitive ability of crops. Weed management and the effects of weeds on crop losses will be discussed.

Plant growth and development a review of plant life cycles, basic plant anatomy and physiology, and water and nutrient uptake and transport.

Weed identification — how to recognize seedling weeds. Weed seeds will also be displayed. Weed identification references will be available for review, as well as where to get identification mate-

Herbicides — will include herbicide characteristics and placement. Herbicide absorption, translocation, basis for selectivity between crops and weeds and injury symptoms will be reviewed.

Weed control—a review of the latest research on tillage practices, weed control, herbicides, herbicide resistance, herbicide tankmixes, economics of control and herbicide precautions and restrictions. Participants are asked to bring problems for discussion.

Registration will begin at 8:45 a.m., followed by integrated weed management at 9 a.m., weed biology and identification at 10 a.m., herbicide at 11:10 a.m., lunch at noon, sprayer calibration and sponsor displays at 1 p.m., and weed control at 3 p.m.

Northern Valley boy's team will have returning players

Second year coach Jason Dibble is returning to the Northern Valley Huskies for the 2003-'04 season. Coach Dibble has several returning players and Assistant Coach Chuck Fessenden to help

He said Jesse Hilburn started both as a freshman and sophomore and so brings experience. Thomas Ostmeyer and Joey Copper both saw a lot of minutes on varsity last year, while Garth Gebhard, one of the team's two seniors, hasn't played much varsity, but will be expected to a lot this season.

He said the team's major strengths are their quickness and good defense, while their weaknesses are that they're small and they lack depth and experience because they graduated four of their senior players last year.

Members of the 2003-04 squad are: seniors — Gebhard, 6'0"; and Randal Conner, 5'7": juniors — Hilburn, 5'10"; Dustin Russell, 5'11"; and Ostmeyer, 6'1"; sophomores — Casy Dole, 5'7"; Cody Lowry, 5'9"; Clarke Nelson, 5'7"; Chad Husted, 5'7"; Cole Kinderknecht, 5'10"; Avery Thalheim, 5'9"; Scott Shearer, 5 10"; Joey Copper, 6 1"; and Andrew Sheley, 5'10"; and freshmen—Chase Miller, 6'0"; Henry Griffiths, 5'11"; Chance Miller, 6'1"; and Cameron Duede, 5'11". Coach Dibble said the team's goals are to improve their scoring consistency to no less than double digits per quarter, make first or second in the Cheyenne Conference League and at the league tourney, and to get out of the first \perp round of regionals.

His keys to reaching these goals are to play together as a team and everyone to push each other in

He said he expects Herndon to place first in the league because they are returning all of their players from last year, followed by Kensington, Northern Valley, Eastern Heights, Palco, and Lo-

Coach Dibble thinks their toughest games this year will be against Herndon, Arapahoe, Cambridge, Bertrand, and Alma.

The Huskies first game will be against an Atwood team that has lost four of their five starters. The game will be played in Atwood and will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Fri-
