spree.

The contest ends on July 20. Look for the special advertisements in The Herald this week. Check them out and plan to shop these businesses because these are the only places a customer can enter the contest.

Contest rules include: You must be 18 or older to participate. Employees of participating business may register but must do so at one of the other participating businesses. Employees of The Herald, and their immediate family members, may not participate. The $1,000 Shopping Spree will be in the form of scrip money which will be good for merchandise only, not cash, at participating sponsors. Deadline for entry is noon on Friday, July 20. The drawing will be held on Saturday, July 21, 2007, at the Jaqua Abstract, 109 W. Washington, St. Francis. Must be present to win. Winner will have until Monday, July 23, 2007, 6 p.m. to spend the $1,000 scrip money. The winner will notify The Herald when spending the scrip money so photos may be taken to be used in The Herald.

the contestant's Choice Award.

Each contestant was judged in the categories: Academics, Individual Interview, Performing Arts which was the talent they performed on Saturday evening, Endurance in the special presentation; and Grace and Elegance, as, in evening gowns, they were presented to the judges. The Academics category is worth 30 percent of the scoring.

Holly earned the Academics award. Dara Loyd was presented the Individual Interview award, Grace and Elegance award and the Endurance Award. Montana Rhymes, singing "Two Marionettes," won the Performing Arts award.

Others competing were Daniele Schmid, Cassie Dankenbring and Jenice Hartman.

The 2007 Cheyenne County Young Miss, Lauren Ross, was introduced during the program and gave several special numbers. Mistress of ceremony was former Junior Miss, Heather Sowers, who, with humor, helped keep the show moving. Gavin Smull sang the closing song.

There was a dance presentation by Aubrey Mills, Tiffany Hamilton and Allyson Northrup. During the intermission, a slide show presentation of the week's activities was shown.

There was a change in escorts during the Grace and Elegance part of the program. Formerly, young men have escorted the contestants but this year, 5- and 6-year-old girls, Lauren and Lindsey Johnson, Layne Pettijohn and Cassidy Busse were as lovely as the girls they escorted.

Judges for the Young Miss program were Sally Parker, Idalia; Tracy Hillmer, Goodland; L. Kay Noonan, Wahoo, Neb.; Lindsay Stamm, Benkelman; and Nancy Helling, Idalia. The scholastic judges included a panel with educational backgrounds.

Vickie Cress, director of the Young Miss program, said the goal of the Cheyenne County Young Miss is to boost self-esteem, build character, encourage educational value, motivate creativity and stimulate competitiveness in college-bound senior girls. The contestants are also awarded numerous scholarships.

The 2009 Cheyenne County Young Miss program has been set for the third weekend in June, 2008. This year's juniors will be the participants.

For the last four weeks, there have been entry blanks in the participating businesses letting people guess the date and time of the first load of wheat brought into any St. Francis/Wheeler elevator.

This year's winner of the Harvest Countdown contest is Wilma Lampe with a guess of June 20 at 8:59 a.m. Her guess was made at St. Francis Super's and she received $50 in scrip to be spent at one of the businesses listed.

Second place of $35 scrip went to Danielle Gardner who guessed June 20 at 8:45 a.m. Betty Louden placed third guessing June 20 at 9:45 a.m. She received $15 in scrip.

The scrip money will be good only in the following participating business: Pizza Hut, St. Francis Equity, Hilltop Market, St. Francis Super's and Burr Liquor and The Saint Francis Herald.

Casey McCormick, ad manager, said the response to the contest was excellent.

"We had a total of 573 entries and, for June 20 only, we had 35 entries," he said. "It is nice to hold the contest when there is a good harvest!"

DOCTOR

78-year-old cancer patient. In this case, he was charged with giving her an overdose of painkillers while her family watched. Her son, Jim Leach, along with the family, had her moved to the hospital in Goodland where she died a few days later.

Ironically, in a written statement, the doctor said he did not believe in euthanasia. Concerning Mrs. Leach, he wrote, I believe if a patient is in pain — you try to relieve it. I did try to relieve my female patient's pain. I thought that was my duty, my obligation as her physician.

Chris Willt was a diabetic. When he came into the hospital, Dr. Naramore treated him for low blood sugar and a massive stroke, then gave the 81-year-old the drug Norcuron, a paralyzing drug, that made it impossible for him to breathe.

The trial was held in St. Francis and after two weeks of trial and nine hours of deliberation by the jury, he was convicted of murder and attempted murder. He was sentenced five to 20 years on both counts.

However, after only two years, a Kansas appeals court overturned the conviction, saying no reasonable jury could have found criminal intent. In 2000, the Kansas Legislature voted to pay Dr. Naramore $250,000 to settle a wrongful prosecution claim.

He moved a couple of times, setting up a practice in Harper for a time, then moved on to Arizona. Little had been heard about him until now.
