

Playa lakes, "lagoons," mud holes or by whatever name they are known can be a nuisance to farm around. Farmers can turn this "headache" into cash by enrolling the acreage into the Conservation Reserve Program. The Department of Agriculture will make an annual rental payment to farmers who retire the land from crop production for 10 to 15 years and plant a grass buffer around it. ### McDonald/Bird City Red Hatters

On Sept. 18, at the McDonald Senior Center, the McDonald/Bird City Red Hatters prepared a banquet fit for the St. Francis Red Hatters to feast upon.

Conversations were lively and laughter genuine as the McDonald/Bird City Queen, Phyllis Wingfield, greeted the honored guests and read some humorous facts befitting the red hat era.

Door prizes were awarded throughout the day. The lucky recipients were Donna Zimbleman, Madeleine Roberson and Rose Mary Bierig.

The after-lunch program was centered around "show and tell time," featuring items brought by all attending of a special or antique significance. This was opened by the ultimate show and tell when Owen Wingfield entered the center in his purple shirt and red hat with his 75-year old saw in hand and told the story of his love for the antique saw. He concluded his visit by mentioning the special 57 years he and Phyllis had been together.

The take-home favors were decorated red hats and a box of red hat, red hot candy.

The Bird City/McDonald red hatters attending were Ana Antholz, Frieda Black, Bonnie Burr, Vernetta Haack, Beverly Higgins, Diane Krebs, Betty Lewis, Iris McIntosh, Lois Morelock, Edna Roesener, Joan Tongish, Margaret Voorhies and Queen Phyllis Wingfield.

At the business meeting, plans were made to have lunch on Oct. 10, with the afternoon activity being the construction of a red hat scarecrow to be entered in the contest on Oct. 12-14 at the Peoples State Bank north lot. May your votes allow the red hatters to win.

St. Francis Music Club

Guest Night, the first fall meeting of St. Francis Music Club, was held in the sanctuary of First Christian Church on Tuesday evening, Sept. 11.

A welcome by the incoming president, Marsha Magley, preceded a time of hymn singing with clavinova accompaniments by Tema Trumbo.

Janet Carman presented the poetry moment, reciting, "Come, Walk With Me," an original poem written by her mother, Janetta Evins, of St. Francis. Roll Call was answered by 15 ladies.

New club yearbooks, were distributed. In the absence of Beth Maifeld, vice president, who was out of town attending her father's funeral in Iowa, Raedell Winston, past president, acquainted the members with program plans for the coming term.

Members were advised of the Northwest District Music Club Meeting, to be held in Atwood, on Sept. 29.

Yuletide Festival and the Music Club Candy Store, to be held at St. Francis Community High School on Dec. 2, were discussed, plans to be completed soon.

The club voted to accept PTA's invitation to provide part of the Family Night entertainment on Feb. 25.

A members talent show is to be the main attraction at the next regular meeting on Oct. 9, at the home of Ruth Milliken.

By nomination of the club, Marsha Magley was named the recipient of the 2007 Who's Who In Church Musicians by Kansas State Federated Music Clubs (under 10,000). Announcement of the honor and award had been made at the conference banquet, held at Pittsburg on April 21. The certificate received was viewed by members and Marsha expressed her appreciation to all, acknowledging Jean Ann Confer, who had composed and submitted the written nomination, which reflected over 54 years of vocal, instrumental and directing achievements in the field of church music.

St. Francis Music Club was organized and federated in August 1951, now having just completed it's 56th year of service in St. Francis and northwest Kansas. Special recognition was given to the Planning Committee, for their work in preparing for the new term, and to Ruth Milliken for preparing the yearbooks.

Following adjournment, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Janet Carman and Bonnie Cram.
