When Medicare patients are admitted to the Cheyenne County Hospital, they will know immediately if the outpatient service will be paid by Medicare.

The hospital recently installed a Medical Necessity Checker system which will check if an Advanced Beneficiary Notice is needed at time of the admission.

An Advanced Beneficiary Notice is a written notice that may be received from providers or physicians before a service is furnished to a Medicare beneficiary informing them that:

 Medicare will probably deny payment for that specific service or item

• The reason the physician or provider expects Medicare to deny payment.

• The beneficiary will be personally responsible for payment if Medicare denies payment. This notice also provides the beneficiary the opportunity to deny service.

Come & Meet

our new Police Chief

Friday, December 14

10 a.m. - noon

protects the Medicare beneficiary from any unexpected cases where Medicare will deny payments. By providing the form, the beneficiary knows upfront the financial impact on them if Medicare does deny payment. This is also an opportunity to choose whether or not to receive the service.

Advanced Beneficiary Notices do not reduce Medicare coverage of services. Even when a beneficiary receives and signs an Advanced Beneficiary Notice, the claim is still submitted to Medicare. Medicare will decide on coverage and payment of claims once it is received. If Medicare denies payment on the claim, the beneficiary becomes financially responsible for the service.

The hospital administrator and staff know the Advanced Beneficiary Notice will take additional time during admission of a patient. If there are any questions, contact

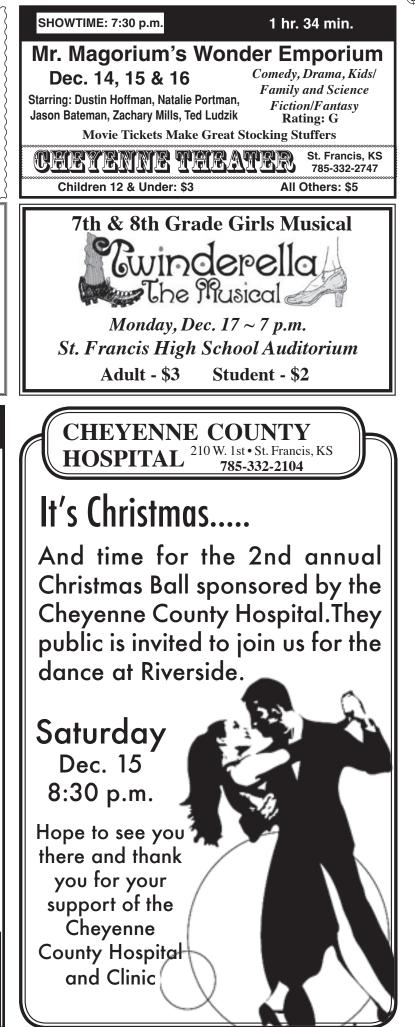

An Advanced Beneficiary Notice Heidi and Kris at the hospital, 785-332-2104.

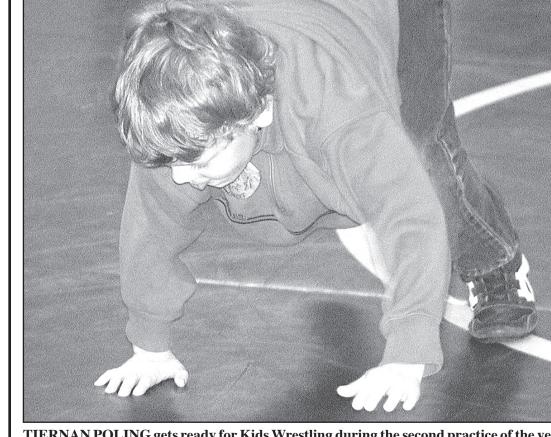

> There will be a hospital representative at the St. Francis Senior Center at 11:20 p.m. on Thursday to discuss the Advanced beneficiary Notice and the Medical Necessity Checker system.

Surprise party held

Nina Raile and Pat Cook were surprised on Thursday, Nov. 29. Their daughters, Coleen Applegate, Teresa Porter and Monica Geocaris hosted a coffee celebration in honor of their birthdays. The party was held at Main St. Coffee with bars and coffee being served.

Many cards were brought to the birthday ladies and they report more are still coming in daily.
