

Couple marries in local ceremony

Brittany Nicole Kehlbeck and Craig David Boggio were married May 31, 2008, at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Bird City. Father Roger Meitl officiated the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Royce and Darci Kehlbeck, Bird City, and Dwight and Roxie Boggio, Red Lodge, Mont.

Honored guests and grandparents of the couple are Dan and Dottie Stang, and Elaine Kehlbeck, all of St. Francis; Irene Kehlbeck, Colby; David and Marlene Boggio, Red Lodge, and Marian Higbie, Billings, Mont.

Parents and grandparents were seated to the music "Hymne."

The "Bridal Chorus" was played as Brittany was escorted by her father. The bride wore a white, strapless, satin, A-line dress with beaded metallic embroidery and pearls with a split back and chapel train. Her veil was two-tier, elbow length with a crystal beaded metallic edge. She carried a bouquet of red roses with sprinkles of white pearls.

Brittany's personal attendants were her aunts, Dawn Lauer and Deanna Krieh.

Bridal attendants were Aubrey Kehlbeck, sister of the bride; Danielle McAtee, cousin of the bride; Lindsay Salt, sister of the groom; and Amanda Banister. They wore black strapless sweetheart dresses with trumpet skirts tied with a white sash in the front. They carried bouquets of white roses and walked in to "Canon in D."

Shay Salt and Sierra Boggio, nieces of the groom, were the flower girls.

Candle lighters were Trista Smull and Kodi Lauer, cousins of the bride. They wore long, black skirts with strapless white tops tied with a black sash in the back. They walked in to "How Beautiful."

Groomsmen were Alex Whitcroft; Waylon Boggio, brother of the groom; Justin Salt, brother-in-law of the groom; and Roy Webb. The groom and groomsmen were all dressed in black tuxedos with white shirts and black vests.

Ring bearers were Ashton Salt and Quade Boggio, nephews of the groom, and Dylan Ketzner and Brady Ketzner.

Ushers were Cody Cox, and Will Scott.

Jean Ann Confer was the pianist for the ceremony. She accompanied vocalist, Rick Krieh, uncle of the bride, to "Let It Be Me" as the couple lit the unity candle.

Nick Ketzner was the reader. Guests book attendant was Jessica Marshall. Bailee Stang, cousin of the bride, handed out programs and rice bags.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Boggio

Following the wedding, the couple was escorted to the Bird City Legion Hall in a black limousine where everyone enjoyed a reception, dinner and dance.

The wedding cake was made by the bride's mother. Reception table attendants were Sherry Stang, and Roxie Neitzel, aunts of the bride; Sheila Boggio, sister-in-law of the groom; and Marcia Hickert.

Hosting the reception were Dan and Jessi Stang, and Everett and Marilyn Feltham, uncles and aunts of the bride, and Don and Carolyn Marshall.

Darin Stang, uncle of the bride, was videographer.

Brittany and Craig honeymooned in Las Vegas, then traveled to Red Lodge where they celebrated with another reception, dinner and dance on June 7.

The bride and groom are both 2008 graduates of Fort Hays State University. They are making their home in Goodland, where Craig is employed at First National Bank and Brittany is employed at Vision Source.

Book review from
St. Francis Public Library
Demon Rumm
By Sandra Brown

It was the publicity stunt from hell as far as Kirsten Rumm was concerned. She may have been writing the book about her late husband, aeronautical daredevil Demon Rumm, but she didn't see the need to play host to the arrogant bad-boy actor starring in the film version's title role. Still, for the good of the project, Kirsten agreed to share her beach front home with the impossibly sexy screen idol.

Any other woman would do anything to be in her sandals, but Kirsten wasn't falling for Rylan North, even if he did play his role of male lead to perfection. His down-home charm, his gentleness and virile charisma, might be seducing her in every sense of the word, but he was an actor, after all. Seducing an audience was his job. Rylan could have any woman he wanted.

So why was he so desperately pretending to want her?

From the moment he saw her, Rylan North knew that Kirsten Rumm was the woman he'd been waiting all his life to cast as the star in his real-life love story. What did it matter if he was every woman's fantasy if he couldn't get Kirsten to so much as glance his way? He'd caught the look of past hurt behind her sky-blue eyes - a dark secret that shadowed the sparkle. Rylan was determined to find out what tragedy held his passionate woman back from a second chance at love even if it cost him his reputation, his career, and his life. But first he'd have to get Kirsten to act on her instincts... and to trust the flesh-and-blood man behind the fantasy.

Behind the Scenes

Elton Keller reported to the Historical Society that bids have been received from two companies for work on Ye Olde Country Church. The Church Committee and the Historical Society board plan to meet to discuss the options and make recommendations to the Society.

Several events are on the Historical Society calendar for fall. First is an Insider's Tour of the band shell scheduled for 5 p.m. on Aug. 12. Then on Sunday, Sept. 14, Stan and Dee Dorsch will lead a Northeast Cemetery Tour. Following the tour, the group can enjoy a meal at Heritage Corner Café in Bird City.

A Music Festival is being planned for October. More information will be available about this special program soon. Several people have also expressed interest in holding community-wide Sunday Song Fests at Ye Olde Country Church. Let the board know if your church is interested in hosting a hymn sing.

"Summer Visitations"

Dear Plain Sense: I am recently divorced and my children will be spending part of the summer with their father, in another town. I hear about other families who have a lot of conflict over this. What can I do to make this a good situation for all of us?

Your concern is well-founded, as custody and visitation issues are often a primary source of conflict when parents are divorced, and too often, the children feel caught in the middle. Planning ahead is important. Often the anxiety involved comes from not knowing what is going to happen, so parents need to be sharing summer plans as early as possible. Good communication between all adults involved is vital, and a willingness to work together for the sake of their children.

Children's feeling about visitations vary depending on their relationship with the non-custodial parent, as well as their own personal interests in how they want to spend their time. Younger children tend to eagerly anticipate the visit, and should be sent off with encouragement and a smile. As children get older, they may resent having to leave their friends during the summer, and other activities such as sports, in which they are involved in their community.

It is very important for parents to recognize this change in attitude as their children get older, and to be flexible in regards to visitation time. When the young visitor arrives, the non-custodial parent and family should allow some time for adjustment to the new surroundings, household rules and expectations. Parents should also encourage their child to keep regular contact with the other parent through phone calls, letters and e-mails.

Summer visitations don't have to be a time of dread if parents maintain a working relationship with each other in regards to the child. And children can relax and enjoy their time with both parents when they are included in the communication regarding plans, and feel encouraged and accepted.
