A pizza party and golfing competition was held at Riverside Recreation on Friday morning, July 25. This was the annual end-of-the-season event for the athletes who participated in the junior golf program this year.

Before the pizza was enjoyed, golfers moved to the putting green for the day's contests.

A putting contest was held first with Nicky Easter, 12-13 age division, taking first place in the long-putt competition. He won in the 45-foot phase of the contest.

In the 30-foot putting range, Madison Tice was first for the 8-9 year old girls while Tate Busse was first with the 8-9 year old boys.

In a playoff between the three winners, Busse, Tice and Easter, Busse placed first. This involved a 30-foot range.

Next a clock competition was held. This involves each contestant hitting five 6-foot putts placed in a circular position around the hole. Hannah Stafford, 8-9-year old, was the winner in this event. Aubrey Mills won in the 12-13-year-old division.

George Banister was the coach for the team.

Bracelin

"I appreciate all the help I had from Tim Poling," he said. Dr. Poling was an assistant.

Golfer of the Year

Cade Bracelin was named the Junior Golfer of the Year for 2008.

"He did a good job of placing at a number of tournaments this year," Coach Banister said. "He was in a very tough bracket. It is harder than most brackets."

"Kyla Bandel, the Golfer of the Year the last two years, also had a very good year and did well placing in tournaments. Hanna Bracelin placed in the very first tournament she attended as did Aubrey Mills.

"We had a very good year."
