Junior varsity girls play at Wauneta

It was a busy week for the junior varsity volleyball team with action scheduled for Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The first competition of the week took place in Colby on Sept. 8 with Oberlin and Colby. Against Oberlin the final scores were 7-25, 8-25 for a match loss. Although the score of one of the games in the Colby match was closer, St. Francis was defeated 21-25, 9-25.

"We started the evening with the wheels off," Coach Jeff Olofson said. "Oberlin served well and we did not pass to our setter. The setters then struggled to get good sets so our offense was almost exclusively serving. As the score indicates we did not serve very well. It was a very frustrating match for the young ladies, their coach and the fans.

As soon as the Oberlin match was over St. Francis played Colby.

"The first set was close and well-played," Coach Olofson said "We served well, passed to the setter and got several attacks.

"In the second set Colby ran off a string of points and we never could recover. If we don't get a good pass to start we have a very hard time making anything positive happen. The good news is that when we do get good passes we can set and attack.

Thursday

On Thursday, the team traveled to Wauneta and met the Wauneta/Palisade junior varsity.

In these contests St. Francis was defeated 17-25, 11-25 and

Saturday

St. Francis competed in the Wichita County Junior Varsity Tournament on Saturday where they were defeated by Wallace County 23-25, 24-26, by Wichita County/Leoti 20-25, 20-25 and by Garden City 25-22, 25-27 and 5-15.

"Although the results don't look very good this was a fairly good day for the young Lady Indians," Coach Olofson said. "We were generally competitive in the matches and they were fun to play in and to watch. We simply came up short in each match.

"We had worked on defensive coverage in practice and this was better; we still need to improve court awareness and court communication. Too many plays end with two girls looking at each other wondering why the other girl did not play the ball.

"Our serving continues to be a blessing and curse. We often score points then will have a run of misses from consecutive servers. This is a big problem that we will improve on.

"The next week is much quieter for us so we will have a chance to work on problems in practice rather than trying to solve them in matches.

"This is one of my favorite tournaments each year because Leoti has nice facilities and the tournament is well run by people who know what they are doing."

Young ladies take the court in Colby

By Betty Jean Winston

For the first time this year, St. Francis competed with a school which had enough volleyball players for C-team competition. This happened in Colby on Sept. 8. Final scores against Colby were 16-

25, 13-25 and against Oberlin 14-25, 19-25.

"These were the first matches for the C team and they performed fairly well," Coach Jeff Olofson said. "They showed improvement in some aspects of the game as the evening progressed. They will be working on court awareness and transition from offense to defense as several times they were completely out of position. Other skills, including serving and setting, need to become more consistent.

"As schools become smaller it is getting harder and harder to field teams at all three levels. This was apparent last week as neither Hoxie or Golden Plains had C teams and last night Oberlin had to use girls from the junior varsity to have six for the C team game. We are one girl away from the same problem.
