Mock casualty drill is practiced

On Sunday, June 13, St. Francis residents could hear the sirens and, at the east end of Main Street, there were flashing lights, emergency medical technicians and firemen running to different areas and to what appeared to be wrecked vehicles with people inside (or outside).

The Cheyenne County Emergency Medical Technicians of both St. Francis and Bird City, along with the St. Francis Fire Department planned in a mock mass casualty drill. The goal of the drill was to transport 10 patients to the Cheyenne County Hospital within a reasonable amount of time. The drill also involved a chemical spill.

The firemen had to identify the chemical and make it safe for the emergency medical technicians to enter the accident scene. This was a training exercise for the firemen, medical technicians and the hospital staff.

The hospital had their decontamination apparatus set up in the ambulance bay at the hospital and went through the decontamination process.

Each patient was given a diagnosis and played quite well, said Janelle Bowers, emergency medical service director.

"We even had some bystanders who ended up being our patients, purposely planned," she said.

"The emergency technicians train several times a year and this mass casualty pushes us to think what we would do if this were real.

"Our goal on Sunday was to get all of our patients safely to the hospital and that's what we did."

Mrs. Bowers said the fire department and emergency medical service have always worked well together.

"We depend on each other's help during motor vehicle accidents or even ambulance calls around town when there is an all-female emergency medical crew and we need help lifting. We appreciate what the firemen do for us."

The training keeps the technicians up to date on their skills that are not used on every ambulance call.

Woman wins 'Lady' title

Jami Jamison, former St. Francis resident and Cheylin High School graduate has been awarded the title of "Missouri Lady" with the American Dream pageant system. She will represent women over 40 in Missouri and the surrounding area, and will compete for the national title in New Orleans Aug. 18-21.

Jamison

"American Dream" offers four separate divisions, Miss, MS., Mrs and Lady, for more information visit american-dreampageants.com

was designed to empower women to reach their dreams, become involved in their communities and develop a personal platform that each delegate will work with personally throughout her reign. Mrs. Jamison has chosen "Teen Challenge International," a nationally recognized drug and alcohol recovery program, as her personal platform.

"Teen Challenge" is one of the oldest, largest, and most successful program of it's kind in the world. Established in 1958 by David Wilkerson, it has grown to more than 170 centers in the United States.

The story of "Teen Challenge" can be read in the books "The Cross and the Switchblade," and "Run, Baby, Run." Mrs. Jamison has been working directly with "Teen Challenge Women's Ministry" in Ozark, Mo., as a mentor and fundraiser, raising over $700 to date going directly to "Teen Challenge".

She currently resides in the Springfield, Mo., area with her husband, Ross. She said she enjoys working in the community by being involved with "I Love America" one of the largest Fourth of July celebrations in the state of Missouri, "Builders in Action" (improving the homes of single moms, widows, and spouses of deployed troops), "Project Partnership," (a makeover project for public schools in the Ozarks) and is a choir member of James River Assembly. With over 230 choir members, they perform at Silver Dollar City, Springfield Cardinals Baseball games, I Love America, as well as participating in two to three regular church services each Sunday.

She is the owner of her own business, Cleaning and Painting Service, specializing in rental property and real estate, and is able to provide part-time employment to several individuals. The couple has two children, Derek Jamison of Shawnee, and Meaghan Collier of Republic, Mo., and the grandmother to Elana, age 3.

She is the daughter of Jim and Sharon McCann of Bird City.

Town and Country Garden Club

The McDonald Town and Country Garden Club held their annual spring tour on Wednesday, June 9. Four carloads of members and guests drove to Dresden where they visited the three greenhouses of Mona's Market and Greenhouses. There were lots of plants, containers, and ideas for planting.

Russell Rhodes, husband of member, Margaret Rhodes, invited everyone to tour his yard and see his garden. All were amazed at how much this 93-year-old man still does. And the great part of it is that each fall

Margaret shares onions, tomatoes, parsnips and other garden produce with club members.

At 12:30, all had lunch at the Landmark Inn in Oberlin. After lunch they toured an antique store in Oberlin. Everyone reports having a good time and that it was educational.

Guests who attended were Ray Johnson, Mary Holle, Wilda Werner, Susan McKain, Lois Morelock and Eleanor Swihart.

The next meeting will be Aug. 11 at the firehouse in McDonald.
