Haigler News

By Floy Fisher

Friday, Aug. 13, at 3:15 p.m., the restoration of the Country Schoolhouse 67 South building in Haigler was completed.

All inside and outside work is done. It was 3 years ago this month that the schoolhouse was moved from the cornfield west of town to its current location on Porter Avenue. On Saturday morning, a piano was moved into the schoolhouse; and in the coming weeks, more school desks, furniture, and furnishings that have been so generously donated will be cleaned, repaired where needed and moved into the building. Hopefully, the project will be near completion for the third Tumbleweed Festival scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 23. Plan now to attend and see the Country Schoolhouse 67 South Museum.

Tea party held

Tea at the Haigler White House Revisited was the theme of a morning tea party brunch on Saturday morning, hosted by LaNeta Carlock. Honored guests were her grand nieces visiting from Mt. Pleasant, S.C: Hannah Reed and Lucy Walker Mulligan; and her niece, Daniela Webster from Iowa City, Iowa. Others attending were LaNeta's sisters, Myrna Mulligan and Galena Webster. Everyone enjoyed the menu of peppermint tea, sparkling strawberry kiwi water, cucumber sandwiches, butterfly chicken salad sandwiches, oatmeal cookies, fresh melons, and mints.

The tea party was in memory of the Christmas Tea of 2005 when all were in attendance at what was to be the last tea party together with their mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother, Opal Collicott. Pictures, memories, and stories of that tea were shared; and a short story was read by Hannah. The story was written by her grand uncle, Stan Carlock; and looked into the future years from now when the girls would be old, return to Haigler and remember their teas at the Haigler White House.

Lois Zuege and her sister Edith Roundtree drove to McCook last week for business and shopping. Veda Douglass visited Lois in her home on Tuesday.

Visitors at the Dale Faylor home on Wednesday of last week were Lois Zuege and granddaughter Rikki.

Jerrie Wheaton went to Denver with Donna Roberts last Thursday. They spent the night and did a medical visit on Friday. On the way home they were able to do some shopping.

I'm sure everyone has noticed the new railroad crossing in Haigler. Today (Monday) Laird is getting a new crossing as well.
