Landfill violations are meeting topic

By Karen Krien

karen.k@nwkansas.com Recently, the county landfill was sited for several violations by the Kansas Department of Health and Environment. In an effort to correct these violations which included blowing trash, the Cheyenne County Commissioners, at the Feb. 29 meeting, made some decisions that will effect how trash is put into dumpsters as well as brought to the dump.

With the wind in northwest Kansas, there are not a lot of days left for dumping trash. The commissioners agreed that all loose trash will need to be bagged or it won't be accepted.

It was also noted that only tree materials be placed in the burn pile.

They discussed not allowing the trash trucks in St. Francis and Bird City to dump when the wind is blowing. J.R. Landenberger, city of St. Francis superintendent, said that the trucks are able to take several days trash without dumping.

The commissioners will be talking more about correcting the violations.

Road signs and 911 funds New road signs, 911 funds restrictions and a new sign-making machine and how it would be paid for were discussed.

Justin Lohr, who has experience making signs, said the signage equipment owned by the county is outdated. If the county is going to be in compliance with the new a meeting and then he will have reflective signs, new equipment more information as to the cost is needed. That equipment would cost approximately $20,000.

Ryan Murray, emergency manager, said he would be talking to commissioners in Rawlins and Sherman counties. Possibly, they would be interested in contracting with Cheyenne County to have their signs made, which would help pay for the equipment.

No decision was made until ment was signed. more information is available.

Mr. Murray said emergency responders will be switching to narrow band March 13 and 14. At that point, he said, we will know if the towers will be working.

He said the Bird City City Council will be updating their tornado siren so dispatch can operate it from the dispatch office. It is presently set off by hand.

• A heating boiler in the courthouse was needing repairs again. Since it is constantly being repaired, the commissioner wanted a replacement bid.

 Commissioner Andy Beikman made a motion to move forward to help county employee, Sam Beeson, seek a lung transplant. The vote was unanimous.

• Jannelle Bowers, ambulance It was noted that the tornado director, said six new tires had bulances. An emergency medical techncian class was discussed.

• Dave Flemming, road and bridge supervisor, was given permission to bid on line for a 1996 Kenworth truck to replace the 1979 International.

• A mutual aid agreement for fighting fires was discussed. There appears to be a problem concerning cooperation with Haigler and Benkelman. Those involved will attend a future commissioners' meeting.

Executive sessions

Justin Lohr, noxious weed director, asked for 15 minutes of executive session to discuss personnel. Upon coming out, chairman Dale Patton said no decision would be made.

Jennifer Padgett, communication director, asked for 5 minutes executive session to discuss personnel. Mr. Patton again announced that no decision was to be made.

Next meeting

The next meeting of the commissioners will be held on Friday, March 16, instead of March 15. The meeting will start at 8 a.m. in the commissioners' room in the courthouse.

Local bull breeder recognized in biannual report operated by Ryan and Diane Shay, St. Francis, has two bulls listed in the Spring 2012 Sire Evaluation Report published by the American Angus Association in Saint Joseph, Mo. National Cattle Evaluation (NCE) expected progeny differences are now generated on a weekly basis; however a biannual report is still printed. Issued in both the spring and fall, the Sire Evaluation Report features the latest performance information available on 4,800 sires, and is currently accessible at www.angus.org.

"This report provides both Angus breeders and commercial cattle producers using Angus genetics with accurate, predictable selection tools for improving their herd," said Bill Bowman, American Angus Association chief operating officer and director of performance programs. Expected progeny differences (EPDs) are generated from the performance database of the American Angus Associa-

Flying S Ranch, owned and tion, which includes information submitted by more 8,000 Angus breeders this past year through the Association's Beef Improvement Records (BIR) program.

Expected progeny differences are listed for growth and maternal traits, as well as residual average daily gain (RADG), docility and carcass traits that integrate DNA information in addition to performance records. Decision-making tools also include Values in the suite of bioeconomic indexes designed to assist commercial producers in simplifying the genetic selection process.

The biannual Sire Evaluation Report utilizes nearly 21 million measures used to generate more than 60 million expected progeny differences for the Angus breed.
