Work group meeting planned for Monday

The Cheyenne County Conservation District Board will hold a Local Work Group meeting at 8 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 27, at the conference room in St. Francis, Kansas at 8 a.m.

"Local Work Groups are important, because they provide recommendations on local and state natural resource priorities and criteria for Department of Agriculture conservation activities and programs to the Natural Resource Conservation Service Kansas Technical Committee," said Clint Bursch, chairperson of the county district.

The responsibilities of Local Work Groups are identified in the Conservation Program Delivery Manual. They include:

- Ensuring that a conservation needs assessment to identify priority resource concerns is developed using community stakeholder input and use the conservation needs assessment to help identify program funding needs and conservation practices.
- Recommend the United States Department of Agriculture conservation program application and funding criteria, eligible practices (including limits on practice payments or units) and payment rates.
- Assist the Natural Resource Conservation Service and districts with public outreach and information efforts, and identify educational and producers' training needs.

• The Local Work Groups' recommendations will be reviewed by the Kansas Technical Committee for submittal to United States Department of Agriculture agencies.

• The work groups should be diverse and focus on agricultural interests and natural resource issues existing in the community. Membership should include agricultural producers representing the variety of crops, livestock and poultry raised within the local area; owners of nonindustrial private forest land, representatives of agricultural and environmental organizations; and governmental agencies carrying out agricultural and natural resource conservation and activities. The work groups also take into account concerns of particular historically underserved groups and individuals including but not limited to women, persons with disabilities, socially disadvantaged and limited resource groups.

For more information about Local Work Groups or to become a member, contact the local office or Natural Resource Conservation Service staff at the service center at 614B W. Business, US 36, St. Francis or by telephone (785) 332-2341.

Weather

The Northwest Kansas area including Cheyenne County and St. Francis continues to be dry. Saturday night, Kathy Woodcox, weather observer, reported .06 inch of rain but the wind blew most of the day and, by noon, there was little sign that any precipitation had fallen.

Farmers are starting to harvest the dryland corn but most of it is for ensilage. Pastures are dry and farmers have been cutting CRP in an effort to have something for their livestock to feed on this winter.

There is a slight chance of rain later on in the week.
