Emergency plans made

By Karen Krien

Gary Rogers, emergency manager, reported that, by May 2003, he will be required to have two mitigation plans drawn up, one for Rawlins County and one for Cheyenne County. However, with the present computer equipment, it is impossible.

At an earlier meeting, Manager Rogers had approached the commissioners about purchasing a lap top computer which would fill the needs required by the state and also the plans could be started. The government has offered incentive money of $3,000 for the two counties to draw up the plans. He thought $1,500 could be used to help purchase the computer while the other $1,500 could be used for expenses incurred with the total plans.

The commissioners agreed that between the grant money, and Emergency Management Capital Outlay and Equipment Reserve funds, there would be enough money to purchase the computer which will cost around $2,322.

The manager was concerned how the $3,000 grant funds would be handled—if it were needed to be a separate fund or line. However, after discussion, it was decided that the funds be deposited in the general fund and vouchers would be used to draw out those funds when needed.

Manager Rogers reported that the county had received $4,850 from the Department of Justice grant. However, there was a list of specific items which the money could be spent for and there were only a few items which the county could use.

Letter to the Editor

To the editor,
For several months, I have followed the news coverage of the two main Republican candidates for attorney general, Phill Kline and David Adkins. Over the past few weeks, I have had the opportunity to hear them both speak about why they want to serve in that post.

While Mr. Adkins appears to be a well-rehearsed politician, I have repeatedly noticed that his message is void of any substance or documentation. The largest part of his presentation is filled with sly remarks about Mr. Kline or innuendoes as to Mr. Kline's ability to serve as attorney general.

Mr. Kline, however, seems to speak with sincerity and great passion. His message is packed full of examples of how our criminal justice system is failing to protect the residents of Kansas and what he, as our next attorney general, can do about it.

One thing that I noticed is that Mr. Kline carries background research with him everywhere he goes. On the occasion I heard him speak, he invited the audience to examine the documents he brought as proof that his claims were factual and accurate.

Knowing his reputation as a man of honesty and integrity, I don't think that anyone took him up on his offer. But he wouldn't have offered if it weren't true.

In fact, when Mr. Adkins denied ever voting against our nation's Pledge of Allegiance during a debate, Phill Kline held up, as evidence, the roll call vote showing that Adkins had, in fact, voted against protecting the Pledge of Allegiance.

I, for one, am tired of electing a bunch of pretty faces who lack the honesty, integrity, and conviction required to put their personal needs aside and get the job done regardless of the personal sacrifice. From what I've seen and read, I do not believe that David Adkins is the type of man who is ready to make the personal sacrifices needed to make Kansas a safer place.

Letter to the Editor

To the editor,
It is so nice to be able to take our yard waste, eg: weeds, lawn clippings, small branches, to the dump during off-hours.

All one has to do is back your pickup up against the truck that's parked at the dump gate for this purpose. This enables one to throw their waste to the front of the truck bed, therefore, leaving room for others to do the same.

Let's all be considerate of other "dumpers", and the dump site staff, so we can continue to have this convenience.

Scholarship awarded

Drew Flemming, a 2002 graduate of Cheylin High School will receive a $1,500 scholarship from USA Funds, the nation's largest student loan guarantor. These funds will help Drew pursue a auto body degree at Northwest Kansas Technical College.

"These scholarships will help students surmount financial barriers to higher education," said Carl Dalstrom, president and chief executive office, USA Funds.

"USA Funds is proud to support this program as part of its mission to enhance access to education."
