PTA, not just for parents; grandparents

What is Parent Teachers Association

The new school year is fast approaching and it's time to think about joining Parent Teachers Association (PTA). The association is not just for parents - grandparents, businesses and anyone concerned about the welfare of children in the community is encouraged to become a part of the association and join in the members efforts to advocate for children, all children kindergarten through 12th grade.

Parent Teachers Association is not a part of the school but a separate organization of parents, teachers and other individuals working together for kids and their education - working to enhance and enrich the public education system. The association does not make school policy and does not dictate to the school it's wishes and desires, but it works together with the school to help achieve common goals.

The Parent Teachers Association is not a fund raising organization, although funds are raised to support many of the activities that PTA sponsors, such as providing enrichment activities and programs for children and families alike. One example of this the Reading Is Fun (RIF) book distribution sponsored by the organization each year. With the Reading Is Fun program, every child in the elementary school receives three books during the school year, free of charge.

The objects of the National Parents Teachers Association are:

- To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, community, and place of worship
- To raise the standards of home life
- To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth
- To bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the education of children and youth
- To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for all children and youth the highest advantages in physical, mental, social and spiritual education.

Parents Teachers Association representatives will be at the grade school enrollment Aug. 15 and 16 to take memberships. For further questions or to join the organization, please contact one of the following board members: Renee Braun, president at 332-3198; Sara Gideon, vice president at 332-2763, Lila Whitmore, secretary at 332-2406 or Mila Bandel, treasurer at 332-2149.
