I would like to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to our paper boy, Jonathon and his mother, Mary and our dear neighbors, Jack and Iona for their quick response in getting me emergency help from the fall I had taken in my yard. To each and everyone of the Haigler EMTs for the transportation to the Dundy County Hospital and trip to Greeley Medical Center. You all do an excellent job and we are so thankful to have you in our community. Words cannot express the love for my daughters for all they have done and my husband for also being there for me at this difficult time. Thanks to all the Dundy County Hospital staff and the physcial therapy department. You have all provided me with excellent care and a quick recovery. To all the rest of my dear family, friends, neighbors and for pastor's words of comfort, all the cards, telephone calls, flowers and visits, I was so blessed and thank each and everyone of you. God bless you all. Sincere love and appreciation, Opal Collicott

Rural Stress

Contributed by Karen D. Beery, LCPC, Consultation and Education Department

This year's drought conditions have impacted northwest Kansas in several ways, including additional stress added to the lives of farm families and rural communities. Recent rains provided some reprieve, but much of the damage was done long before the needed moisture arrived. There is nothing anyone can do to change the weather, but we can help and support each other lead to depression and much more through the difficult times ahead. Stress, especially accumulative stress, can negatively impact one's ing problems in perspective. Focus on physical and mental health, as well as relationships on the job and within marriages and families. The result can tives. be significant health problems, depression, anxiety, divorce, and even suicide. During tough times, there are several things that can help:

Kansans have new optionsontagrenewal

Kansas residents have a new option telephone. when they renew their vehicle tags. For those who wish to avoid potential lines or simply don't like to mail their renewals, there is now a quicker, simplerelectronic vehicle registration op-

The program, dubbed "E-tags" by the Department of Revenue, provides current vehicle owners with two new ways to renew their tags, the Internet or the telephone. Both are completely automated, extremely easy to use an very quick. Even those who are unfamiliar with the Internet would have no problems renewing their vehicle registration. The Internet option, www.kswebtags.orgconsistsofjust four simple steps. Renewing by phone at 1-866-4KSTAGS (457-8247) is toll-free an just as easy. Either option can be completed in a matter of minutes and can be used any time of day, every day of the week from any computer with Internet access or any touch-tone

"Our mission is to provide a simple, convenient way for citizens of Kansas to renew their vehicle registrations," said Sheila Walker, director of the Kansas Division of Vehicles. "The new E-tags program helps us further this goal by utilizing the latest technologies in a very easy-to-use way."

Thursday, October 31, 2002

There are only a few requirements for the use of E-tags. The vehicle being renewed must currently be registered in the state of Kansas, the vehicle owner's address as printed on the renewal notice must be current and the vehicle must be insured by a participating insurance company.

Vehicle owners wishing to use the E-tags service should have their PIN number and a credit card ready before logging on or calling in. The PIN will be printed on the renewal notice that should arrive 30 to 45 days before a vehicle's tags expire. In addition to the normal renewal fee, there is a slight charge to cover program opera-
