EPYCS News
Father Woody's Christmas dinner for the homeless is much more than just an event. Father Woody's is a dinner for the homeless sponsored by the Church of Holy Ghost and The Adam's Mark Hotel in Denver. It is located in the middle of downtown Denver. It is exactly the kind of hotel you would expect to be located in downtown Denver, ritzy, high class, very shiny and usually harbors guests with considerable change in their pockets. However this time of the year, near Christmas, the good people at The Adam's Mark donate a very large dining hall to be used by thousands of homeless people for many of whom this is their only Christmas.

The dinner comprises a few appetizers followed by a warm meal that varies from year to year. This year the meal included ham, sweet potatoes and some mixed vegetables. Dessert was served in the form of gingerbread cookies as well. Another huge part of this dinner are the presents handed out to each and every guest that day. Gifts for all ages and genders are donated specifically for this dinner to assure that every diner receives a gift that fits his or her age and gender. Many adults and youth volunteers serve as "elves" and are required to take down names and genders and ages of everyone at their assigned table. They then go collect the appropriate presents and bring them back to the people. This is the position that the Idalia EPYCS Chapter have fulfilled for the last two years.

The Idalia EPYCS Chapter has been a part of the Father Woody's Christmas dinner for the last four years. In these last years the members have been waiters, food tray carriers and elves, these are only a few of the many jobs that volunteers of all ages perform at the dinner. This year Reese Farness, Kaleb Rittenhouse and Kaitlin Soehner were recruited to escort to the elevator, people with disabilities, strollers, pregnant women or people who just couldn't make it down the stairs.

Betty J. Moellenberg was a Sunday guest of Dennis and Laura Lengel and Kevin. Barry and Terry Hendrickson and Brandi hosted Christmas dinner at their home with all their family attending. They remained till Sunday.

Kenneth and Betty Moellenberg hosted their card party at their home New Year's Eve, with fourteen attending.

Darby Shanks took her grandmother, Elsie Shanks to church Sunday then they enjoyed dinner with Virgil Lundvall and Violet Knapp at Prairie Vista Restaurant and visiting friends.

Mike and Amanda Feron were Christmas dinner at her home for son and family, Mark and Ellen Lengel, Derek, Alex, Abby and Heidi.

Gary and Carol Andrews hosted Christmas dinner. Guests were Brian and Danielle Andrews and girls, Kevin and Jessica Andrews. They were also New Year's dinner guests.

Judy Langendoerfer is now working for Hinkel Insurance as a secretary in Wray. Christmas dinner guests of Ward and Vaudi Wiley at their home in Burlington were Steve and Susan Knodel, Angela and Andrea; Brett and Sally Parker, Reed and Robbie; Patricia Lengel of Zobel, Neb., and her daughter, Mary Baker of California.

Richie and Sarah Beckman spent the weekend in Colorado Springs and their children stayed with their grandparents, Larry and Janie Beckman.

Chet Wieser Sr., Joyce and Mildred King all of Burlington were Sunday evening visitors of Dean, Susan Wieser, Michael and Grant Wieser.

Diana and Jodi Morris and Carmen motored to Chadron, Neb., Sunday morning to visit Libby Morris and friend Willy and other relatives of Jodi Morris.
