Club Clips

Lawn Ridge 4-H Club

November

The Nov. 14 regular meeting of the Lawn Ridge 4-H Club was called to order by President Heidi Yonkey. Bailey Merklin led the flag salute and Caitlin Northrup had the members sing "Leaves and Trees."

"Why did the turkey cross the road?" was answered by 11 members, two leaders, six parents and one guest. Caitlin read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were approved as read. Cindy Burr was present to do Officer's Training. Taylor Archibald gave the treasurer's report and gave the club's balance, Christy Wurm gave the leader's report.

There was no old business. In new business, it was decided to hand out reflective items at the Health Fair, to tag Christmas tress, donate $200 and box food for the Food Pantry and to enter a float in the Christmas Light Parade.

Members then moved on to the program. Heidi gave a project talk on Arts and Crafts, Kattie Ford gave a demonstration on Healthy Snacks. Valerie Wurm gave a safety talk on Holiday Safety and

Lakyn Pettijohn led everyone in playing "Heads Up 7 Up."

Dale Northrup announced the program for the next meeting. Scott Ford led the 4-H Pledge. Caitlin and Taylor led the move for adjournment. Refreshments were provided by the Pettijohn family.

December

The Dec. 17 meeting of the Lawn Ridge 4-H Club was held at Cheyenne Bowl. Heidi Yonkey, president, called the meeting to order. Allyson Northrup led the flag salute.

"How cold is too cold?" was answered by nine members, two leaders, five parents and two guests. The minutes were read and Caitlin read three communications. Taylor Archibald gave the treasurer's report and Christy Wurm gave the leader's report. Members had a gift exchange.

Dale Northrup read the next month's program. Tristan Archer led the 4-H Pledge. The meeting was adjourned.

Afterward everyone enjoyed pizza and several games of bowling.
