

SURVIVORS' WALK — The survivor's walk in this year's Relay for Life celebration was held at the park on Saturday. The balloon arch, donated by Greg and Susie Walz, was impressive and those walking as the sun went down noticed an eerie appearance each time walkers went through the arch. Betty Louden and Arlene Peter said it was as if there was a glow in the balloons.

Relay stirs emotions; brings entertainment

THERE WERE SEVERAL forms of entertainment throughout the evening. Some were on the grounds like the Schlepp Cancer Nickel-Nickel game (top) operated by Melvin Schlepp. Katie McDanel played the game while Wanda Gienger, grandmother, and Spencer Schlepp look on. (Counterclockwise) Mary Ruth Burkett hugs Phyllis Roelfs as they remember those who have not survived and those who have survived. Penny Archibald and Chloe Miller sign the Cheyenne County banner which will go to Washington, D.C. Peggy Moberly dipped a Rice Krispie treat into the fountain of chocolate. There were strawberries, bananas and other food which people could purchase for 50 cents. All proceeds went to the American Cancer Society. One of the tents had this sign with flowers surrounding it. It just seemed to say it all!
