my great-grandparents, William Martin (Bill) and Mary Samson. In about 1920, when my dad, Richard Gregory, was about 9 years old, he lived with his parents in Oxford, Neb., for awhile when his step-dad, Horace Roach, worked on the railroad there. Daddy's older sister, Frances (Gregory) Larimer stayed with her grandparents (Bill and Mary Samson) and worked in their hotel and restaurant. She was about 13 or 14 at the time. I wonder if anyone that lives around Haigler remembers their hotel. I think it was located on the east side of main street about half way between the hiway and the next street north. I wonder if it is the same as the one Don called Munson's Hotel. I believe that building was still standing in the 50s when I was a child growing up in that community. "The garage that Don mentions

50s. It was painted a salmon pink color and had stucco siding.

"I remember also, the Railroad Depot. We had several milk cows and separated the cream which we took to town to drop off at the depot where the train would pick it up. I remember the depot being painted dark green with red trim around the windows, along the eaves and down the corners. Daddy would take the cream cans from the back of our faded red 1940 Chevy 2 ton truck and set them up on a flat cart with a big long tong. It had iron rims on the wooden spoked wheels. It was always a treat if the train came to town and stopped while we were in town.

"In later years after the depot was closed, we took the cream to Ed Odenbach's cream station which was located just north of Wheaton's as being run by Garnet Hoover, Café on the west side of main street. piano lessons every week from Mrs. Proctor in Wray. It also helped pay for groceries that we bought at Trembley's Grocery store on the corner of main and the hiway.

"I wonder if anyone remembers Samuel David (Dave) Gregory, my grandfather, who had a dray wagon, but only lived in Haigler for a few years before he died in 1914. He probably lived there about seven years. He married Mary Frances Samson (named after her mother) in 1907 and had five children two of whom died in 1914 and are buried next to Dave in the Haigler cemetery. I know so little about my grandfather because he died when my dad was only 3 years old. Daddy didn't remember him and only knew what his sisters remembered and his mother and uncles told him through the years."
