Ramey weds fellow opera singer, Larsen

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. — Operatic bass Samuel Ramey, Colby High School graduate, married soprano Lindsey Rae Larsen on Saturday. Ramey moved to Chicago a few years ago, and the couple met while Larsen was in the chorus of the Lyric Opera of Chicago. They married at First Lutheran Church in her hometown of Sioux Falls. American opera singer Frederica von Stade sang during the ceremony.

"She's the most famous mezzo-soprano in the world," Ramey said in an interview. "I couldn't believe she would come to Sioux Falls and sing for Lindsey and me." Ramey, 60, will return to the Metropolitan Opera in the 2002-03 season for performances in "Nabucco" and "The Rake's Progress." He also plans to sing in Chicago, Los Angeles, Vienna, Zurich and Paris. Larsen, 38, is studying voice and plans to travel with him.

This show has received national recognition and is expected to be even larger this year than in the past.

This is a wonderful opportunity to see hundreds of one-of-a-kind hand-crafted quilts from all over the country. Call (970)332-5676 or (970)332-3484 for details.

Redecorating tips for your child's bedroom

"Mommy, I like it!" Isn't that what every mother is dying to hear? As children grow, they develop very particular tastes and eventually their own sense of style.

Peter Fowler, Director of Merchandising for Cargokids!, gives us some tips on how to make your child's room everything you both need, fun, functional and safe.

Children love to help, be a part of projects, and tell you what they think. Fowler says, "Children are fresh and uninhibited; allow their imagination to guide you as you plan their room."

Narrow their bedding choices down to two or three options and then ask them which one they like. Also, allow them to choose accessories that complement their personal interests. If your little boy loves planes, trains, and automobiles, then decorate with them!

Kids need casual, durable furniture that grows with them. There are furniture companies that specialize in furniture with your child in mind. Every parent is looking for solid craftsmanship that will withstand jumping on the bed and pillow fights.

Fowler says, "Always keep four things in mind when buying furniture for your kids...sleep, study, storage, and safety. You want furniture that will grow with them."

Now that the walls are painted, the sleep and study areas identified, it's time to tackle the important stuff. Where are all these toys going to be stored?

Wicker baskets in different colors are perfect for storing art supplies, books, and toys. If that doesn't fill the need, try a toy box. These are perfect for quick clean-ups before company arrives.

You still need lamps, rugs, and decorative pillows to finish your look. Whether it's a zebra picture frame or bandanna pillows, accent pieces will help complete the room.

"Remember that as kids grow up, their needs grow and change," said Fowler, "If you have sturdy, reliable, furniture a simple change in accessories and a coat of paint can change a room from 'rainbows' to 'Britney Spears'."
