4-H club shares the Christmas spirit

Abilene Hustler's 4-H Club

The December meeting for the Abilene Hustler's 4-H Club started at 4 p.m. with Christmas caroling. The group made four caroling stops: Meadowlark Manor, Lantern Park Manor, Prairie Senior Living Complex and Fair View Estates. At 6 p.m. the group gathered at the 4-H building for a soup supper and the regular meeting.

President, Michelle Bremenkamp, called the meeting to order and the group recited the flag salute. There were 34 members present and for roll call, everyone named their favorite board game. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Erika Erickson gave the parliamentary tip on the six steps for making a motion.

Leanne Juenemann gave a 4-H Council report, announcing that this month would be the biggest fund-raiser month for the year by selling pizzas. Pizza orders will be due at the January meeting. The club will be making the pizzas on Feb. 1, at the 4-H building. She also announced that beef weigh-in will be Feb. 22, and County Club Day has been tentatively scheduled for March 14.

The treasurer report was given and communications were read. The club received a thank you from the Colby Chamber of Commerce for setting up the Nativity Scene in the park, a thank you from the Kansas 4-H Foundation for a $100. donation, and also a thank you from Sue Draper for the quilt and recognition.

Club leaders reported that the Genesis Food Box wrapping will be Tuesday, Dec. 3 after school at the 4-H building and the Christmas parade is Sunday, Dec. 8. Everyone is to meet at the south side of the old Boogart building at 5:45 p.m. to ride on the float. There will be a record book training will be held Feb. 17. Awards were also handed out that were not received at the achievement banquet.

Project leaders announced that Food Day will be Jan. 11, and the cost is $12.

SBC: A community partner, contributing to Kansas

"For over a century, SBC has served our state as a community partner, in challenging and prosperous times alike."

For more information about the benefits of full telecommunications competition, please visit www.connectkansas.org.

You've probably heard some of it — the latest criticism of SBC Southwestern Bell by our competitors, working hard and spending plenty to try to mislead customers and state leaders.

Well, I've worked for SBC here in Kansas for a long time, and I know what the real face of SBC looks like.

For over a century, SBC has served our state as a community partner, in challenging and prosperous times alike. Despite last year's weak economy, SBC invested over $790 million in Kansas.

SBC is interested in the people it serves and their success, which is why a large part of the company's investment is in people. In our state, SBC:

- employs over 3,000 Kansans;
- has an annual payroll of over $162 million;
- contributes over $130 million to vital state programs through annual taxes;
- buys about $300 million in goods and services every year from Kansas businesses; and
- gives about $2 million a year to charitable organizations and initiatives statewide.

Our employees and retirees invest in their communities, too, through the SBC Pioneers. Last year, they donated over 120,000 volunteer hours — about $2 million worth of "sweat equity" — across Kansas.

SBC's biggest investment has been in technology. Last year, we invested almost $200 million in infrastructure improvements, delivering high-speed Internet access to more Kansans — because extending broadband stimulates our state's economy and helps keep Kansas competitive.

At SBC, we understand that "service quality" is more than a catch phrase. When disaster strikes, we're there for our customers. For example, during last winter's record-breaking ice storm, repair requests were 600% above normal--67,000 requests for repairs in a 15 day period. Over 600 SBC technicians went to work to get every single telephone back in service.

SBC has provided high-quality service to Kansans for over 100 years, and we want to keep on investing in this state. We're your neighbors, your friends and your community partners — we're the real face of SBC.

Clubs

A variety of activities are scheduled in conjunction with the event. The dog project will meet Tuesday, Dec. 3. The greenery that was sold has arrived should be distributed. Becky Donelan has volunteered to lead a "Leadership" project for 7 to 9 year olds. A county wide junior leader movie night for those who are 13 years old and up will be held on a Sunday in December. In January there will be an arts and crafts meeting in Brewster for those who want to make bracelets. The tied polar fleece quilt classes will be Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 9 and 10 after school at the Methodist Church. 4-Hers who are 10 and older are to attend Monday and the younger ones on Tuesday. Also a rag Christmas tree class will be held Monday, Dec. 16.

There was no old business. For new business the club discussed the bad condition of the nativity scene. It was voted to apply for a grant from the drug money to buy the materials to make a new nativity scene, then as a club project, make a new nativity scene.

For the program of the meeting, Kimberly Gerstner told jokes for an Other Program and Michelle Bremenkamp gave a demonstration on "How to Make Meringue Snowflake Decorations."

The next months meeting was announced, 4-H pledge recited, and the meeting was adjourned.

Kelly Gerstner is the reporter for the Abilene Hustler's 4-H Club.

About Town

Frances Zeller from McCracken, will be calling the Golden Buckles Square Dance club's dance on Saturday. The square dance will be at the Colby Community Building at 8 p.m. As always, visitors are welcome.

This will be the only dance this month, as the New Year's Eve dance has been canceled.
