Manor in Colby. Jim and Kathy called on Bob and Virginia Arnberger Monday evening.

There are days it would be nice to have mail delivered to the door. But on occasions such as this, picking up mail at the post office bestowed the privilege of visiting with three gentlemen bikers. They were a part of the group biking across Kansas. Saturday morning they were preparing to continue their journey after having breakfast at a local cafe. Saturday was the first leg of their eight-day trip to Leavenworth. These three gentlemen were eager to share conversation. They earnestly defended the beauty of our land and small towns from the fallacy that there's nothing to see. "There's everything to see because there's nothing to see," one of the men said. He went on to expand that there were no tall buildings and unsightly obstructions to cover the beauty of the land. The fact that our hamlet had been blessed with 1.70 (some optimists reported more) inches of rain on Friday and Saturday nights made the air fresh and invigorating. After enjoying home-cooked food in our local diners and dragging main on bikes of every description, they left town on a cool, sunshiny, windless morning praising our weather and friendly local countrymen and women. As they bike across Kansas they will remember Winona.

Joel Koster, son of Art and Pat Koster, received a degree in architecture at Kansas State University Saturday, May 22.

He was a member of honor society Tau Sigma Delta. Art and Pat Koster and Lucille Bruns of Winona, Cameron and Jessica Koster of Hutchinson and Kris DuVall of Des Moines, Iowa attended the ceremony. After touring Seton Hall, viewing Joel's work station and the work done this summer, they were luncheon guests of Joel and Mandy Koster. Saturday, June 5 the Koster, Lucille Bruns and Kris DuVall attended the wedding of Lucille's nephew, Steven Lueth and Holly Overmiller at the St. John Lutheran Church in Russell. Art and Pat Koster were host and hostess and Kris DuVall was a cake receptionist. Kris returned to Winona where she will spend time with her family until her return to Iowa on Saturday.

Bethesda Lutheran Church in Page City hosted Vacation Bible School throughout the last two weeks. The first week grades 5-8 studied lessons, created crafts and capped off with a bowling party in Colby. The second week ages 3-fourth grade learned several Bible stories, sang songs, made art projects and finished with an ice cream/cake event. Helpers Tricia Taylor, Karen Peterson, Jana Gfeller and coordinator Rebekah Peterson reported a great turnout!

Melvin and Kathy Herschberger lead double lives. At their home in Arvada, Colo. they pursue the responsibilities of city life. They look forward to the slow pace of the time they can spend at their home away from home in Russell Springs. The pace picked up the weekend of the Butterfield Trail Ride and created a population explosion. Porter Park was trailer and tent city. Some campers chose more secluded locations. Tents began popping up all around the Herschberger residence on the hill. Barbecue grills were fired up to accommodate hungry Herschberger descendants. Guests of the host family, Melvin and Kathy Herschberger, were Ron and Willa Ruth and Monty Herschberger of Sanshowe, Okla., Chad and Cathy Herschberger, Kei and Tasha of Arvada, Colo., Art and Donetta Payon of Great Bend, Linden and Mo Herschberger, Scott and Mark of Westminster, Colo., Tonn and Linda Herschberger of Blue Earth, Minn., Harley and Phyllis Herschberger of Russell Springs, Kevin and Patti Herschberger of Olathe, Michael and Andrea Herschberger of Overland Park, Dale and Suzanne Herschberger, Dustin and Crystal and Zack Luedke of Colby, Brian Herschberger, Kortney and Levi and Bob Toffett of Kansas City, Mo., Jason and Michelle Herschberger, Ashley, Janie, Cole and Mitch, Kevin Stapleton, Jalen and Dillon of Denver, Wilda Weber of Scott City, Shelly Johnson, Paul Travis and Autumn, Jerry and Nancy Johnson, Melissa and Timothy of Bossier, La. and Mike and Delores Guthrie of Holcomb.
