Art club starts fall season; new member welcomed

High Plains Art Club members held their first meeting of the season at South Wind Plaza on Tuesday, Sept. 14.

Rosie Van Dyke was welcomed as a new member. Refreshments for the day were furnished by Jo Bricker.

After working on their individual works of art during the morning session and going to lunch together, they visited Van Dykes home to view her many works of art.

In the afternoon session, Marlene Carpenter, president, presented a program on watercolorist, John Cody, who lives in Hays with his wife. They have three children.

Cody was born in 1925 and has had an interest in moths since he studied them in college when he took a course in entomology. He later went to medical and has been a practicing psychiatrist for more than 25 years, something he says he did, in part, so that he could afford to paint.

During his lifetime, Cody has traveled all over the world studying moths and painting intricate watercolors of the many varieties of these insects with appropriate foliage backgrounds. Cody's paintings are so life-like that many of them have been published in the Audubon Magazine. Prints of his painting are for sale at the John Cody Gallery in Gatlinburg Tennessee and a full color book has been published about his life and with prints of his paintings. In 1990 he had a one man showing at the Smithsonian in Washington D.C.

After the program a business meeting was held and the club's art show at the Prairie Museum of Art and History was discussed. The club members felt that the show was a success.

The art show to be held at the Carnegie Art Center in Goodland, opening on Oct. 3, was also discussed.

Bev Kern, treasurer, informed anyone planning to participate that they should have their artwork at the Carnegie Art Center in Goodland on Saturday, Oct. 2. Marj Brown, secretary, collected a description of the paintings each person will take to the show and sent the information requested to the center.

The club will meet again on Tuesday, Oct. 12, at South Wind Plaza at 10 a.m. with Jo Bricker as program chairman and Bev Kern as hostess. All local artists are invited to join them.

Group's medical items in short supply

By PATTY DECKER
Free Press Editor

Officials with the Colby VFW are urging those who have borrowed crutches, wheelchairs or other medical equipment that they are no longer using to return the items to the facility, 220 N. Lake Ave.

Dale Deaver, one of the VFW members in charge of the equipment, said the borrowing of medical equipment is free and available to anyone in need of these items for as long as necessary.

However, the VFW's supplies are getting short and in order to help the next person in need, Deaver said he wants to remind borrowers, if finished with the equipment, to return the items.

"We would also appreciate any donations of crutches, wheelchairs, bathroom medical accessories for those temporarily handicapped as well," he said.

Another concern he noted was the foot rest on wheelchairs, which are sometimes removed while the person is recuperating at home.

Removing the foot rest is not a problem, Deaver said today, the problem is when the wheelchair is returned without the foot rest being reattached. Anyone returning items can either leave the equipment by the front entrance to the VFW building on Lake Avenue or they can call Deaver at (785) 443-1113 or another member for assistance.

"There are also VFW members, like myself, willing to take equipment to people in need of a medical item when transportation is limited," he said.

Hospice auction scheduled here in November

The Thomas County Hospice Services is making its final preparation for its annual fundraising auction Saturday, Nov. 6 at City Limits Conference Center in Colby.

The auction, which raises funds to ensure that Hospice support is available to terminally ill individuals and their family members, will provide a unique opportunity to Christmas shop and help a worthy cause at the same time, said Jenny Niblock, president of the Hospice advisory board.

"The conference center ambience and food are always a class act. This should be our best auction ever," she said.

The quality of this year's program will give auction item contributors a platform to show their support for Hospice, she said.

More than 300 items are expected this year. Featuring some of those contributions available, Niblock said, there will be a large garden shed constructed by Bill Olsen at Straight Line Truss and Woodwork; along with a Broil Master barbecue grill and golf trip to Colvert Hills in Manhattan.

"I can't think of a better cause to have your name linked to," Niblock said. "People know how important Hospice is and what it does for people in our community. The public appreciates what our contributors do for Hospice."

Right now, we'd like to ask people to do two things," she said.

The first she suggested would be to donate something to the auction and secondly to buy a ticket for the auction early.

All the proceeds will go toward the mission of Hospice, which is to help terminally ill persons live out their last days with dignity and comfort by providing trained healthcare professionals who help with issues such as pain management and counsel on death and dying.

It also provides counseling to family members on dealing with a loved one with a terminal illness.

Board members are out in full force talking with groups and/or businesses about contributing to the auction, she said.

However, if someone has not been contacted by a board member and would like to donate to the auction or wants tickets, call either (785) 462-6710 or toll-free at 1-800-315-5122.

Tickets are also available in Colby at Kansas Quick Lube, Colby Bowl, His Shop and Colby Photo.

Folk dance company to perform in Colby

The Balkan Folk Dance Company Frula will perform at the Colby High School auditorium starting at 7:30 p.m. (CDT) Thursday, Sept. 30.

Those wanting to attend will be admitted by Western Plains Arts Association season tickets or by tickets purchased at the door for $15 for adults, $8 for students and children.

The dancers are considered to be among the fastest and most exciting in Europe, officials said.

Frula will present folk dances from all regions of the former Yugoslavia as well as Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Albania.

"Their breathtaking technique transforms customs from these cultures into a theatrical show through the use of dazzling costumes, athletic prowess and flamboyant motion," officials here said.

Happenings

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Golden Buckle square dancers meet Saturday in Colby

Barbara Whitehead of Wichita will call for the Golden Buckle's Square Dance on Saturday starting at 8 p.m. at the Colby Community Building.

Lessons may soon be available so interested persons are invited to come watch members and dancers from other clubs in the area enjoy an evening of fun and exercise, said Delma Dible, spokesperson.

The 800 pound Gorilla

Just got a whole lot bigger!

That's right. The Gorilla has been growing. Already the biggest and most effective advertising medium in the Tri-State Region, The Country Advocate has been adding readers all year.

No more 800-pound weakling. Now The Advocate is the 900-pound gorilla of Northwest Kansas advertising!

First, The Advocate added nearly 1,550 new home-delivered households in Sherman County with readers of the all-new, all-local Goodland Star-News.

Then, the Gorilla picked up 1,750 new home-delivered households in Norton County when The Norton Telegram joined the club.

When you need to sell something, find something or notify someone, the Gorilla is your best friend. Reaching 18,200 households with nearly 42,000 readers across northwest Kansas and eastern Colorado, the Gorilla packs a punch. It can move your refrigerator or your old car. A house? No problem for the Gorilla. And all at rates that save you money.

And The Advocate is nearly all home delivered. Some "shoppers" count on people picking them up at the filling station. It's cheap, but it can't compare to home delivery reaching nearly every house in the area.

Just try it! The Gorilla will work hard for you. Call today with your ad.
