Appropriations Committee.

Tiahrt would face strong opposition in a race for whip. Rep. Eric Cantor of Virginia, whom Blunt designated chief deputy whip three years ago, is already campaigning to succeed his mentor and claims more than 90 commitments out of the 118 needed to assure victory.

Rep. Zach Wamp, R-Tenn., also is eyeing the post, and aides to other lawmakers said Rep. Mike Rogers, R-Mich., and a former FBI agent, was gauging support for a challenge.

A prominent conservative, Tiahrt was elected to Congress in 1994 with help from anti-abortion activists in Wichita. He signed onto the GOP Contract With America and set to work trying to shut down four federal agencies, balance the federal budget, turn power over to the states and reform welfare.
