State launches tourism Web site

The Kansas Department of Commerce Travel and Tourism Division has launched a new Web site just in time for the summer travel season.

Capitalizing on the fact that more than 70 percent of travelers are now using the Internet to plan their trips, Kansas Travel and Tourism has undertaken a complete overhaul of its www.travelks.com Web site.

"We are now able to market the state over the Internet in ways it never has in the past," said Becky Blake, director of the state tourism division.

Key features of the new Internet site include: (1) An easy-to-use trip planner that allows the consumer to custom-design a trip; (2) Interactive mapping of destination locations; (3) Advanced search technology; (4) More photography throughout the site, including the ability for communities to post photos with each individual attraction and event

"We are extremely excited about the new travelks.com Web site and know that the commitment made will pay dividends for Kansas," Blake said. "This project is the culmination of many months of work by the entire tourism industry and we are pleased with the results. In addition to all the new features and design, we will now be able to provide personal, relevant, and timely information to travelers."

The trip planner is an important new feature of the Web site and allows consumers the opportunity to custom design a trip, she said. Visitors can either select an individual city and activities within a pre-determined radius or select themed areas of interest and discover places across the state that offer unique travel experiences. Pre-planned travel itineraries are also posted on-line and offer a variety of Kansas Ready Made Adventures ranging from western heritage to outdoor experiences.

Key sections of the 2006 Official Kansas Visitors Guide are also posted online. These stories give visitors a comprehensive look at the state's tourist attractions, towns and people that make a visit to Kansas a memorable one.

"Sections focus on one-of-a-kind travel experiences ranging from Secrets of the Flint Hills, home of the famed tallgrass prairie, to the land of Famous Kansans, from Ike (Eisenhower) to Amelia (Earhart)," Blake said.

The Treasure Hunt section encourages visitors to venture off the Interstate and discover the real Kansas with out-of-the-way antique shops, local specialties and craftsmen. Elbow Room showcases just how vast and varied the landscape is for visitors to discover here, from the red-colored buttes of the Gypsum Hills and the state's famed wetlands to the bison ranges and working ranches where visitors become cowboys, if only for a day or two.

Important links to other organizations involved in making the visitor experience a positive one are now included on the Web site. Consumers can browse stories from the recent "Kansas!" magazine, get up-to-date road information from the Kansas Department of Transportation, find an RV or camping spot and even check on the weather in cities across the state from Goodland to Atchison.

With more foreign travelers visiting Kansas, the new Web site has several sections geared to the international visitor. Order forms for the 2006 Visitors Guide are offered in three languages — Spanish, French and German. There is also a section with important information for international visitors traveling in Kansas, including tips on driving laws, tipping suggestions, what to wear, climate and a listing of traveler services.
