Bible verse

My dearest child, You are blessed indeed when you are hungry and thirsty for me. for you will be satisfied; you will be filled. Be thankful when you find yourself yearning for more of me, more guidance, more courage, more comfort, more company. The deep longings in your spirit for me will most surely be answered.

Nothing is more compelling to my Holy Spirit than a sincere heart that longs for me and my righteousness. To "long for my righteousness" is to yearn for a right relationship with me. And what is a right relationship? One in which you become so infused by and empowered with my Holy Spirit that you bear the mark of my character to all who know you. This is what it means for you to "become less important" so that I may "become greater." Hunger and thirst for me, God. John 3:30.

Summer reading ready to kick off

Pioneer Memorial Library is kicking off its Summer Reading Program next week with events planned to honor of special guest, Pinkerton, said children's librarian Judy Kleinsorge. Pinkerton is a harlequin Great Dane, a beloved character from books by Steven Kellogg. He is based on the author/illustrator's own dog whose stubborn unadaptability during puppyhood inspired the first book, Pinkerton, Behave!

"This summer's reading program theme focuses on pets," Kleinsorge said. "So we asked Pinkerton to stop by and help with some special activities. We are so delighted he agreed to visit."

Activities planned for the week

Happenings

A reception will be held for Jim Griffin as he leaves to serve in Iraq. The come and go event will be from 3-4:30 p.m. Sunday at the Colby American Legion. A phone card shower is requested for phone cards so he can call home frequently while in Iraq.
