TONYA WINGER/Heartland Christian School

Kasey Donley, daughter of Ron and Lona Donley of Colby, got in a full day of golf Monday when Heartland Christian School held its second annual 100 Holes for Heartland Golf Tournament. For this year's tournament, there were 18 teams made up of 57 golfers, said Jenny Niblock, event organizer. Golfers included Heartland Christian School students, parents, staff, and supporters. Each of the golfers raised pledges prior to the tournament. Pledges depended on each hole of golf the participants completed. The goal was for each golfer to complete 100 holes of golf, Niblock said. "We had pledges coming in from 27 states and we raised about $13,550 for our school," she said. "We would like to thank those involved for another awesome event."

K-State Mortar Board Chapter selects Colby graduate

A Colby High School graduate and senior at Kansas State University was selected as a member of the Mortar Board Chapter, a national college senior honor society. Shanda Draper, majoring in social work, is the second vice-president of the Sigma Alpha agricultural sorority, and is active in Block and Bridle and the K-State Horse Judging Team. She is a member of the K-State equestrian team and is on the Big 12 Commissioner's Honor Roll. Draper is the daughter of Sue Draper, said Levi Wolters, media representative at K-State. Members are chosen in the spring of their junior year based on exemplary leadership, scholarship and service.

The Mortar Board motto is "Scholars chosen for service, united to serve," Wolters said. Mortar Board members are active in many leadership-, scholarship- and service- related projects. For example, one project includes reading weekly to children at local day care centers. Members also serve as ushers at K-State's Landon Lectures, host campus guests of the president at athletic events, sponsor an administrative forum for students and honor K-State's top faculty and staff. Mortar Board also is the only college student group in the nation to coordinate the state-level Academic Decathlon for high school students.
