Briefly

Mosquito fogging begins today

City of Colby crews will begin fogging for mosquitoes the remainder of the summer. Starting today and continuous Mondays and Tuesdays, fogging will take place on the south side of town from Webster south. Fogging on Thursdays and Fridays will include the north side of town from Webster north. The city urges residents to check yards and empty anything that is holding stagnant water, such as cans, swimming pools, and tires to help keep the mosquito population at a minimum. For questions, call 460-4420.

Colby part of Interstate celebration

Colby is invited to join in the Interstate-70 anniversary celebration at 3 p.m., Wednesday, at the exit 54 overpass. As part of the festivities, the 50th anniversary event commemorating the Federal Aid Highway Act, which created the interstate system, will offer a re-enactment of the 1919 Transcontinental Convoy, which was a military convoy that traveled from Washington, D.C. to San Francisco, Calif. Dwight D. Eisenhower's great-grandson will be part of the convoy. For questions, call the Convention and Visitors Bureau at 460-7643.

Wichita challenges profiling law challenging a law that prohibits police from engaging in racial profiling and allows the Kansas Human Rights Commission to investigate complaints.

The city's challenge is part of an appeal of a commission ruling that found a black man was the victim of racial profiling when a white Wichita police officer pulled him over last year.

City Attorney Gary Rebenstorf said the law includes no way to appeal a ruling from the commission and does not state penalties for violations. The city's challenge was filed in Shawnee County District Court.

The law, passed by the Legislature in 2005, says a victim of profiling "shall have a civil cause of action ... against the law enforcement officer ... and shall be entitled to recover damages if it is determined by the court that such persons or agency engaged in racial profiling." Otherwise, Rebenstorf said, WICHITA (AP) - The city is the law does not say what should he had a brief conversation because happen to officers who violate it.

"It just kind of drops off the floor from there," he said.

Colored People, said the Legislature removed language from the proposed legislation that would have made profiling a misdemeanor resulting in a possible jail term to make the law more agreeable to cities and police departments.

He said before the law passed, Wichita Police Department investigations of allegations of racial profiling always ended in favor of officers.

The case in dispute was the first racial profiling complaint on which the Human Rights Commission had ruled.

In that case, Aaron Patterson was pulled over in a predominantly black neighborhood after police said Patterson made contact with a known drug dealer. Patterson said he knew the man's brother.

Patterson was searched and ticketed for failure to use a turn signal. Kevin Myles, president of the Police have denied race was a fac-
