Bridge — Bidding Quiz

1D 1H 2DWhat would you bid with each of the following five

1. S AK983 H Q74 D 762 C J8 2. S A 107 H J 5 D K Q 9 C K Q J 6 3

3. S 10 H Q863 D A65 C AQJ83 4. S AJ762 H KJ6 D — C KJ985 5. S KJ8753 H 9 D J83 C 972

1. Two hearts. The best way to show heart support, which you have, is by raising hearts. A two-spade bid (not forcing) would not suggest support for hearts, and there is no reason to assume that spades would be a better trump suit. Partner did not open the bidding he merely overcalled, indicating a strong five-card or longer suit in a hand of frequently less than opening strength — and a two-spade bid could easily lead to the wrong contract.

2. Three notrump. Partner must have values of some sort for his bid — whether in high cards, distribution or both. Game must be reached, whatever the nature of his hand.

Although three notrump appears to be the right spot, partner might have other thoughts and retreat to four hearts — which your well-rounded hand can also support. The important point is that you can't bid only two notrump or three clubs, neither of which is forcing. 3. Four hearts. If this hand doesn't yield at least 10 tricks, you'd better get yourself a new partner. An alternative choice is three diamonds, a cuebid, to indicate slam possibilities. 4. Three diamonds. Here, also, you must get to game — and conceivably a slam — and the proper way of suggesting both possibilities is by a cuebid. Partner might cooperate by cuebidding in his own right to show interest in slam. If he merely bids three hearts, you carry on to four hearts. 5. Pass. Here there is the real danger of a misfit, so the wisest thing to do is to pass. Two spades might work out well in a given case, but all too often it would lead to serious trouble. If partner does not have spades, the opponents might begin doubling and collect a fat penalty. There is a fundamental rule that in misfit hands, you drop out of the picture as soon as possible. Here, that time is now. Tomorrow: Putting all the clues together.

Opening lead — three of diamonds Putting All the Clues Together

When you're declarer in a grand slam, you should naturally devote more time and energy to your prospects than when you're playing, say, a two-club contract. After all, the stakes are so much higher.

Take this case where South reached seven clubs after East had opened with three diamonds. West led a diamond, and declarer could count 12 top tricks, with the only possible loser a heart. Obviously, this loser could be avoided by taking a heart finesse in the right direction, and it was also obvious that if the spades were divided 4-3, dummy's fifth spade could be established as a trick — thus obviating a heart finesse.

Accordingly, South won the diamond lead with the king, cashed the A-K of clubs and ace of spades, then ruffed a spade. Next came a diamond to the ace and another spade ruff. Unfortunately, East showed out on the third round of spades, so guessing the location of

As happens so often, declarer solved the problem by utilizing the information he had been able to gather during the bidding and play. He knew that East had started with seven diamonds, two clubs and two spades, and so had been dealt precisely two hearts.

Declarer therefore led a trump to the queen, ruffed the seven of spades and cashed his last trump, leaving himself with only the A-J-4 of hearts. West's last three cards at this point were known to be the queen of spades and two hearts, while dummy had the ten of spades and K-10 of hearts. Since East's last three cards were known to be two hearts and a diamond, it no longer mattered to South which defender actually held the queen of hearts.

He simply played the king and ace with the absolute assurance that the queen would fall, and the jack of hearts became his 13th trick.
