Patrick T. Lehman has been named executive director of the Kansas Association of Conservation Districts.

The announcement was made by Jon Starns of Brewster, who serves as president of the association's Board of Directors. Lehman assumed administrative leadership of the association June 1, succeeding Richard G. Jones, Salina, who filled the post for two decades.

The Kansas Association of Conservation Districts supports the activities of conservation district offices located in all 105 Kansas counties. A key priority of the association is educating and informing the public about best practices in the conservation of the state's natural resources.

Lehman and his wife, Robin, co-own Lehman Communications, Inc., a Lawrence lobbying and communications consulting firm founded in 1992. In addition to management of the association, Lehman will continue his lobbying efforts on behalf of several clients.

Anative of Brewster, where he farmed until moving to Lawrence in the early '90s, Lehman has served in numerous civic posts, including mayor of Brewster, Thomas County commissioner, president of Brewster USD 314, and member of the Citizens Medical Center board of directors.

In addition, he served on the board of the Northwest Kansas Groundwater Management District 4 and also on the Kansas Water Authority. In Lawrence, Lehman has been active in civic affairs, including the City of Lawrence Board of Zoning Appeals. He served two terms as president of the Lawrence Breakfast Club of Cosmos International. With the naming of Lehman as KACD executive director, the association offices have relocated from Salina
