Stress seminar set for Aug. 29

A presentation on stress, depression and suicide will be from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 29, at the Colby Community Building, 285 E. Fifth St.

The presentation will be given by Karen Schueler and Ken Loos of the Consultation and Education Department of High Plains Mental Health in Hays.

The event is free and open to any agency, family or individual who would like to understand more about the signs and symptoms of suicide, intervention and prevention as well as coping with the loss of someone through suicide.

Suicide statistics continue to increase in all areas of the United States, with the number of suicides now exceeding homicides.

Many agencies and individuals in northwest Kansas work or live with people who are depressed and suicidal, and some who complete the act in spite of the love and support of family, friends and professionals.

For many, a major mental illness is a component of the problem; for others, the stress of daily living or problems in personal relationships become more than they are able to handle. For information on the event, call (785) 628-2871.
