Caramel peanut popcorn

The more popcorn you use, the thinner the caramel coating. For more assertive candy coating and larger chunks, use 3 quarts. For a more even mixture, use 4 quarts. Servings: 6
3 to 4 quarts popped corn
2 cups roasted, salted shelled peanuts
1 stick butter
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons molasses
Line a baking sheet with parchment paper. Lightly coat a wooden or other large spoon with cooking spray. Combine the popcorn and peanuts. Set aside.
In a medium saucepan over medium heat, melt the butter. Add the brown sugar, corn syrup and molasses. Bring to a boil and cook, without stirring, until the mixture reads 300 F on a candy thermometer. Pour the syrup over the popcorn and peanuts, using the prepared spoon to toss the mixture until evenly coated. Transfer the mixture to the prepared baking sheet in an even layer.
Let the popcorn cool, then break into small chunks.

Card shower

A card shower is requested to help Ernest (Bud) Shull celebrate his 80th birthday on April 2. Cards may reach him at: 2985 N. Range Ave., Colby, Kan. 67701.

Chili lime roasted peanuts

Associated Press
If the next baseball game you watch is from the couch instead of the stadium, try these easy, twice-roasted peanuts that are gently spiked with lime juice and chili powder.
Servings: 8
2 tablespoons peanut oil
2 tablespoons lime juice
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon cumin
1 tablespoon sugar
2 tablespoons kosher salt, divided
4 cups roasted shelled peanuts (not salted)
Preheat oven to 450 F.
In a large bowl, combine the oil, lime juice, chili powder, cumin, sugar and 1 tablespoon salt. Add the peanuts and toss well to coat.
Use a slotted spoon to transfer the peanut to a rimmed baking sheet, arranging them in a single layer. Roast, stirring once, for about 8 minutes.
Remove the baking sheet from the oven and sprinkle the peanuts with the remaining tablespoon of salt. Let cool to room temperature.

Colby High graduate honored

Clarissa Unger, a 2005 Colby High School graduate and a junior in political science and international studies, will be honored as one of eight University of Kansas outstanding women during a ceremony at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, in the Big 12 Room at the Kansas Union.

Clarissa is the daughter of Jeffrey and Marilyn Unger. Unger's award is Outstanding Woman Student in Community Service, officials said. Diana Carlin, professor of communications studies, will be the keynote speaker. Carlin is completing an appointment as dean-in-residence and director of international outreach with the Council of Graduate Schools in Washington, D.C., and will be return to KU in August. A reception will follow the program to congratulate recipients and celebrate their accomplishments. Student awards honor outstanding women in athletics, community service, the international arena and leadership. Awards also recognize women as single mothers and women in partnership. Awards also will go to female faculty and staff members. Jennifer Jordan, director of the Business Career Services Center in the School of Business, will receive the Outstanding Woman Staff Member Award. Mary Klayder, University Honors Lecturer in the Department of English, is the Outstanding Woman Educator. Exemplary women leaders will be inducted into the KU Women's Hall of Fame, a tradition since 1970. The 2008 inductees are Elizabeth Broun, the Margaret and Terry Stent Director of the Smithsonian American Art Museum in Washington, D.C.; Ann Cudd, professor of philosophy and director of the Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies Program at KU; Audrey Langworthy, former state senator from Prairie Village; Maritza Machado-Williams, director of KU's Academic Programs for Excellence; and Marlesa Roney, KU's vice provost for Student Success. The 2008 Pioneer Woman Award will recognize Cora M. Downs, a school teacher and journalist who became the first woman on the Kansas Board of Regents in 1881. She died in 1915. During her short tenure on the board, Downs and her fellow regents recommended the construction of KU's third building, Chemistry Hall. In 1896, Downs was named to the board of managers for the Kansas Pavilion at the World's Fair in Chicago. The pavilion featured Lewis Lindsay Dyche's Panorama of North American Mammals, a version of which is part of KU's Natural History Museum. Her granddaughter, also named Cora M. Downs, became an acclaimed scientist at KU. KU's Commission on the Status of Women and Emily Taylor Women's Resource Center sponsor the Women's Recognition Program.
