Department of Health plans free mercury collection program

The Kansas Department of Health and Environment is sponsoring a free program designed to safely remove and dispose of mercury and mercury-containing devices from homeowners and facilities generating less than 55 pounds of hazardous waste per month.

Mercury has been widely used in thermometers, blood pressure manometers, switches and other products.

Inhaling or ingesting mercury can cause irreversible damage to the brain, kidneys or to developing fetuses.

"Reasonably priced alternatives to mercury-containing devices exist, so now is the time to make the change to a mercury-free alternative and help protect the health of others, as well as our environment," said Maria Morey, program manager with the state's Bureau of Waste Management.

Items eligible for collection under the state's mercury collection program include elemental mercury, mercury amalgams and mercury containing devices (thermometers, barometers, manometers, mercury switches) from individuals, schools, city, county and state agencies and institutions and businesses classified as small-quantity hazardous waste generators. Businesses that are classified as Kansas Generators or EPA Generators are not eligible for the program.

Collection dates are July 14 through Sept. 13. To locate a collection site near you, visit www.kdheks.gov/waste or call (800) 282-9790.

As the state's environmental protection and public health agency, the agency promotes responsible choices to protect the health and environment for all Kansans.

Through education, direct services and the assessment of data and trends, coupled with policy development and enforcement, the Kansas Department of Health and Environment will improve health and quality of life. We prevent illness, injuries and foster a safe and sustainable environment for the people of Kansas.
