

Home safety important for babysitters; tips on hiring who have taken safety precautions around the home need to make with these measures.

"If you've installed smoke alarms and carbon monoxide deplans, stocked a first aid kit and put safety latches on cabinets and toilets, that's great - but these precautions can all go to waste if you forget to mention them to your babysitter," says Jan Stegelman, Safe Kids Kansas coordinator.

"Even after you find the right babysitter - a reliable, experienced sitter with references, at least 13 years old, preferably trained in first aid and CPR - you need to provide them safety tour of your home," says Stegelman.

Take the time to:

• Show your babysitter where to find the phones, first aid supplies and flashlights. Post emergency numbers by every phone (don't forget poison control, (800) 222-1222, along with your cell phone number and itinerary.

• Go over your fire escape plan and backup plan. Make sure the sitter knows what to do if the smoke alarm or CO detector goes off (get everyone out, meet at a predetermined spot and don't let anyone go back in).

• Tell your sitter what areas or activities are off limits. If your children will be playing in or near a pool or playground equipment,

Tips for college students college. I am concerned that he off the debt they already have. may not be as financially literate as he should be. Do you have any tips before he heads away to school?

Dear Kansas Consumer:

As the new school year begins, students across Kansas are heading off to college. It is important for all students to make consumer awareness part of their education this fall.

The financial choices students make during their college years can have lasting effects on their future.

Credit card companies looking for life-long customers heavily target young consumers. They often tempt college students with free merchandise or discounts for signing up.

If students decide to sign up for a credit card, they should choose wisely and shop around for the lowest interest rate and fees. A free t-shirt is not worth the debt they might incur with a new card. They should pay off the balance every month, and never sign up

My son is getting ready to start for a new card if they cannot pay

Students should use caution when starting to build their credit history.

Be aware that late payments and unpaid balances will stay on their credit report for years, possibly affecting their ability to purchase a car or secure a loan down the road. Late fees on utility bills can also negatively impact their credit.

College students are also the target of identity thieves and scam artists. Students should minimize the amount of personal financial information they carry.

Personal information and passwords are the keys to their identity, it shouldn't be shared unless they know how it will be used and vironments should protect any financial information, including bank statements, pin numbers, credit cards, Social Security cards and checks. This information should be kept in a secure place
